

WAR AVERTED; HITLER CALLS PARLEY

Citrus Growers To Incorporate

800 FARMERS HOLD PARLEY

Plans to incorporate farmers of Orange county in a group to form a united front in the solving of mutual problems were revealed last night at a meeting at the Orange union high school with about 800 orange growers present and Thomas McFadden as temporary chairman. The meeting was called by the chairman and members of a committee meeting recently in Placentia.

Rumors that the organization was planned to fight the California Fruit Exchange were denied by McFadden who stated that if formed, the organization will co-operate with the exchange, perhaps, whether the exchange wants it or not.

Lower Rates
Benefits of the proposed group operations were named as an opportunity to lower freight rates, correct present unsatisfactory terminal conditions in the east, establishment of closer relations of the grower and the exchange and other marketing groups and giving the grower more complete information as to marketing operations and costs.

C. J. Cogan declared a destructive purpose was not intended toward the exchange. He said exchange officials were working to secure higher prices for oranges and intimated that greater unity between growers would accomplish this purpose.

Need Unity
Called to the floor by McFadden, H. E. Wahlberg, Orange county farm advisor, was asked his opinion of the organization. He replied that "in trying times like these" unity is needed in the industry and not dissension. Wahlberg asked how the group would work with the exchange but these plans were not revealed.

Frank Daybill, Porterville rancher, urged those present to form a suggested group, to unity book-keeping in packing plants and unity sizes of field boxes. "What we want to know," he said, "is what we get and why." All big organizations become static, he said, and public utilities get action by an occasional shakeup. He said growers should take more interest in their own business and not leave everything to packing house managers.

Herman Freese, Anaheim rancher, stated that he thought regulation of freight rates and other matters was the key.

Bancroft Denies He's New Dealer

SUSANVILLE, Calif., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Philip Bancroft, Republican nominee for United States Senator, last night urged President Roosevelt denying that he claimed to be a New Deal supporter.

"In order not to raise false hopes on your part I beg to inform you that my position has been sadly misinterpreted," Bancroft wired. "I have simply stated that I will support you when you are right and oppose you when you are wrong and in this connection I intend to support you wholeheartedly in your opposition to the fantastic proposal known as the Downey ham and eggs pension plan."

Bancroft's wire referred to a reported statement by his Democratic opponent, Sheridan Downey, that he was leaving for Washington where he would tell the President Bancroft is now claiming to be a New Deal supporter.

RULING ON ELECTION SAVES SEAL BEACH CONSTABLE JOB

Failure of Herman Drent, leading candidate for constable at Seal Beach, to file his campaign expense report within the 15-day limit set by law, will not cost him the nomination he won at the polls, according to a ruling of Attorney General U. S. Webb announced by County Clerk B. J. Smith today.

Drent was leader at the primary with 230 votes, closely followed by David F. Emery, with 228, while Constable Pearson was eliminated from the race, having only 173 votes.

Directs Clerk's Action
But Drent was one day late in filing his expense report, and Clerk Smith delayed in issuing him a certificate of nomination until the attorney general could pass upon the point.

The attorney general forwarded a copy of a ruling given in an identical case in Sacramento county, involving a constable's office. Webb construed the law as directing to the county clerk, rather than mandatory, therefore excusing the delay and permitting

New H.B. Oil Fight Looms

With the Southwest Exploration company granted a contract yesterday by the newly created State Land commission to drill into the Huntington Beach tidelands west of Twenty-third street, the city of Huntington Beach is expected to take legal action against the move at its next meeting.

The city council is scheduled to hold its next regular meeting Monday but a special meeting may be called this week to consider filing of an injunction suit.

Makes Claims
Councilman Tom Talbert claims that under the charter granted to the state, the tidelands belong to the city of Huntington Beach. The city owns a portion of Coast boulevard and some officials believe the proposed injunction action may hinge on the fact the drill would have to pass through municipal property and therefore constitute trespass.

The drillers' contract, specifying launching of drilling operations within 30 days, provides the highest royalties ever received by the state for oil lands. Revenues of $2,000,000 are predicted.

INVESTIGATOR RAPS NAZI SPIES IN U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(UP)—John C. Metcalfe, agent for the house committee investigating un-American activities, charged today that Nazi adherents have obtained secret construction plans for U. S. battleships.

Metcalfe, former Chicago newspaperman who became a committee agent, disclosed activities of German-American Bund members, charging:

- 1.—The bund already is advertising an Oct. 2 celebration of Adolf Hitler's acquisition of the Sudetenlands, although the Sudetenlands have not yet been acquired.

- 2.—The bund members consider themselves the same type of minority as the Germans inhabiting Czechoslovakia's Sudetenlands.
- 3.—Nazi agents have acquired secret battleship plans and even have been assigned to go on trial runs of the latest type battleships of the U. S. navy.

- 4.—That the German-American Bund can muster 5000 storm troops within its own ranks and plans to draft such men "for a sabotage machine and spy net" in event of a German-United States war.

"Adherents to the Nazi cause have slipped into U. S. navy yards where they have obtained employment and secured positions which place them in direct possession of secret plans for construction of U. S. navy battleships of the latest types."

"They have even been assigned to trial runs of these ships."

Cruisers Speed To Atlantic Coast

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Two light cruisers, U. S. S. Concord and Cincinnati, were on the high seas today bound for the east coast after a hurried departure last night from San Diego.

Local navy officials were close-mouthed regarding the itinerary of the two cruisers. Both ships were provisioned for six months and scheduled to full fuel capacity.

All shore leaves were recalled yesterday and no further liberty permitted. Provisioning was completed by nightfall and the ships sailed at 10 p. m.

Something New In British Education

As last-minute despairing efforts for peace in Europe were made, preparations for war took place in all of central Europe's great cities. In London, volunteers dug air raid shelters in parks and air raid precaution warden instructed school children in the use of gas masks. Above, boys of the St. Mary-of-Angels school, Higate, are fitted with gas masks by A. Woodhouse, air raid precautions warden.—Acme Radio-Telephone.

PREDICT WAR WOULD HIT FARM PRODUCTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Department of agriculture officials, studying probable effects of a European war on American farmers, said today that the first result would be a decline in the prices of agricultural products.

What the effect would be over a period of years—if a war lasted that long—would depend particularly on European credit facilities.

No Sudden Gains
"Judging by what happened in 1914 and by the present supply situation we should expect no marked increase in farm prices for from one to two years," one official said.

The effect of a war in Europe on agricultural exports would depend largely upon credit facilities abroad and application of the neutrality law regulating the shipment of war materials, officials said.

Huge Surplus
The United States has a surplus of approximately 10,000,000 bushels of cotton, 200,000,000 bushels of wheat, 150,000,000 bushels of corn and an enormous storehouse of dairy products.

"Anyone who thinks that a European war would result in any sudden rise in farm prices in this country need look no further back than 1914 and 1915," said an official close to Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace.

FILES $25,000 SUIT

John B. Malone of Los Angeles county, sued Homer W. Eich of San Bernardino county, and the General Tire and Rubber company in superior court here today, asking $10,000 for the death of his wife, Margaret, 54, in a La Habra traffic accident September 6; also $10,000 for his own injuries and $5000 for special damages.

PETITIONERS SEEK NEW BOND ELECTION

Five petitions asking the school board to call another "at the earliest possible date" were being circulated in Santa Ana today, following a meeting this morning of the board of directors of the Junior College Patrons' association.

Included among the petitions was one presented for signatures at the meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Masonic club today noon by Mrs. C. V. Doty, treasurer of the Patrons' association. The petition, addressed to the school board, contained the following statement: "We the undersigned endorse the request of the Junior College Patrons' association that you be respectfully petitioned to consider the feasibility of holding another junior college bond election at the earliest possible date."

The junior college bond election held last week lacked 261 votes of having the necessary two-thirds majority. The issue was for $385,000.

Ventura Judge To Preside Over Fee Suit Trial Monday

Superior Judge Louis C. Drapeau of Ventura, will preside over the trial of the county supervisors' $100,000 fee suit against Sheriff L. Jackson, scheduled to start next Monday in department one of superior court.

This announcement was made today by Superior Judge H. G. Ames, of department one, who said that Judge Drapeau also would preside next Friday over proceedings in the court for the taking of deposition from Sheriff Jackson. The deposition of the sheriff was requested by Attorney Edgar Hervey of San Diego, special counsel for the supervisors in the fee litigation.

Hervey seeks the deposition, it is said, in the hope of bolstering his claim that the sheriff has made profits from the feeding of prisoners in the county jail; also has collected mileage for transportation of prisoners, to which Hervey claims the county is entitled. Hervey himself receives 2 1/2 per cent of any judgment won against the sheriff, under his agreement with the supervisors.

Fresno School Bonds Approved

FRESNO, Cal., Sept. 28.—(UP)—An $803,000 bond proposal to finance an improvement program on city schools today had the approval of Fresno voters as a result of yesterday's special election.

The final count stood for high school bonds: Yes—7244, No—1307; elementary schools, Yes—7246, No—1246. Both issues were accorded more than the two-thirds majority needed to carry.

The bond issue will provide part of a total $1,850,000 to be used to modernize city school buildings. A PWA grant of $832,000 will defray the remainder of the cost.

L. A. Loses Huge PWA Project

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Culbert Olson, Democratic nominee for the California governorship, conferred today with Public Works Administrator Ickes. He said after the conference that a $15,000,000 grant for the proposed Los Angeles $35,000,000 civic center has been dropped.

Olson said Ickes told him that while PWA does not have sufficient funds for so large a project, the way is open for negotiations on a smaller project.

NAMED APPELLATE JUDGE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Superior Judge Lloyd Griffin of San Diego today had been named to the fourth appellate court judgeship by Governor Frank F. Merriam. His appointment was approved by the state qualifications commission. Judge Griffin will succeed the late Lacey Jennings.

LATE BULLETINS

PRAGUE, Sept. 28.—(UP)—The Slovaks cast their lots with the Czechs today for a united stand to defend their republic.

At the same time leaders of the Czech German Democrats appealed directly to the British republic, asserting that Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten German party, did not speak for all Sudeten Germans and that the entire German population of Czechoslovakia had not authorized him to demand the cessation of Sudetenland to Germany.

WARSAW, Poland, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Poland was driving a hurried bargain with Czechoslovakia today in their prolonged territorial dispute. It appeared that a solution might be reached that would eliminate Poland as a potential ally of Germany in any war over Czechoslovak minorities.

A messenger flew to Prague bearing a letter from President Ignacy Moscicki replying to Czechoslovakia's offer to cede to Poland a 20-mile strip of Silesia inhabited by 82,000 Czechoslovak Poles. Dr. Casimir Padeski, Polish minister, handed the note to President Eduard Benes at Prague this morning. Its contents were secret.

***
LONDON, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Value of the British pound sterling in terms of the U. S. dollar fell more than 13 cents today as turmoil ruled.

S. F. VOTERS DEFEAT RAILWAY BOND ISSUE

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—(UP)—The San Francisco voters defeated a bond issue which would have provided $21,000,000 for the purchase and rehabilitation of the Market Street railway, returns from yesterday's municipal election showed today.

Only one bond issue, providing $2,800,000 for school construction, was approved of the total of eight appearing on the ballot.

The Market Street railway competes with the municipally owned street car line but with a two cent higher fare, it had been proposed that the city purchase the Market Street company and consolidate it with the municipal line. This was turned down 88,847 to 49,511.

Bond issue in the election totaled $37,658,000. All except the school bonds failed to obtain the required two-thirds majority for approval.

STOCKTON, Calif., Sept. 28.—(UP)—By a vote of 4052 to 2484, Stockton voters yesterday defeated a proposal for a $1,200,000 school building proposal.

EUREKA, Calif., Sept. 28.—(UP)—A $295,000 bond issue for school buildings was passed yesterday by a five to one majority in a city election.

Urge U. S. To Eat More Fish

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(UP)—The department of commerce is cooperating with business interests in an effort to make fish eating more popular in the United States, Secretary Roper disclosed today.

The secretary pointed out that although this nation's fishing industry represents an investment of about $1,000,000,000, the United States has a lower annual per capita consumption of fishery products than any other important nation.

The bureau of fisheries and the business advisory council will cooperate in a program throughout next week to distribute 100,000 fish recipe books to newspaper and radio stations.

Pioneer Inventor Called By Death

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Charles Edgar Duryea, 76, inventor of America's first gasoline automobile and pioneer motor manufacturer, died at his home today after a long illness.

Duryea's first car was given its initial test at Springfield, Mass., in 1892. He preceded by several years Haynes, King, Ford and Winton in the use of pneumatic tires on automobiles.

N. Y. Truck Strike Settled

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Scores of truck companies signed contracts with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters today under compromise worked out by Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, and union officials reported strong indications that the trucking strike was about to end.

Hundreds of battered old city garbage trucks were moving the freight with union drivers on the seats and city drivers as helpers, and most other officials found

HEADS OF FOUR POWERS TO CONFER AT MUNICH

BY WEBB MILLER

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain revealed in the House of Commons today that a German march into Czechoslovakia and an inevitable European war had been averted by the narrow margin of a few hours.

Fuehrer Adolf Hitler had set 2 p. m. as the deadline for the German march, but acting on the suggestion of President Roosevelt, accepted at the last minute a four power conference in Munich tomorrow morning.

Fly to Munich

Chamberlain, Premier Benito Mussolini and Premier Edouard Daladier of France will fly to Munich for what probably will be the most momentous conference since 1914.

The leaders of the four great powers will fly in the morning to the scene of the famous "beer cellar putsch" which began Hitler's march to world power. The conference will start early in the afternoon, an hour when Germany would have been well on her way toward invading Czechoslovakia but for Hitler's decision to negotiate further.

Not Invited

The Czechs have not been invited to the conference, but the British and French will represent Czech interests. The dramatic chain of events which averted an immediate war began at the White House in Washington shortly before 10 o'clock last night.

It was the early hours of the morning in Europe. President Roosevelt's suggestion for a European conference, cabled to Hitler, stirred the German chancellery into quick action.

The suggestion went to London. From there it sped to Paris and Rome.

Takes Hand
For the first time, Mussolini became directly involved in the negotiations hitherto conducted by Britain alone.

Chamberlain urged Mussolini to use his influence with Hitler. He said, "I am sure that you will be able to bring about a settlement of this crisis."

Hitler promptly issued the invitation for the conference. Acceptance by all concerned was almost immediate.

The margin by which an immediate explosion was averted was narrow. Chamberlain was making his speech in the House of Commons, revealing that the four power proposal had been made. He did not know it had been accepted.

Hitler's invitation arrived at the last moment, during his closing remarks. Gets Message
I sat in the gallery immediately behind Viscount Halifax, foreign minister, Stanley Baldwin and the Archbishop of Canterbury, and had a clear view of what happened.

Toward the end of the historical speech a message was handed to Lord Halifax.

Halifax read the message, showed it to Baldwin, jumped up and departed.

In a moment he appeared on the floor of the chamber and went to the government bench. The message with its momentous portent was passed from hand to hand. The government members stirred with excitement.

Italians Withdrawn From Spain War Zone

ROME, Sept. 28.—(UP)—A hint that broader European problems than the Czech crisis would be considered at the Munich four power conference was given today when authoritative sources reported that Italian volunteers had been ordered withdrawn from the Spanish civil war.

It was said on reliable authority that should fail, Spain would be re- moved as a World War theater and the theory that Italy, in event of war, would increase the number of volunteers in Spain to threaten the French border would be abandoned.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Premier Edouard Daladier abandoned a scheduled radio address tonight and explained briefly that he had received an invitation from Germany to attend a four-power conference at Munich tomorrow.

"You understand," Daladier told a nationwide audience, "that on the eve of such important negotiations I must postpone explanations I wanted to give."

Control Press
Press control was invoked for the first time since the crisis began when the government seized today's issue of the newspaper L'Espresso containing a proclamation by Pierre-Etienne Flandin which said "French people you are being deceived."

It said the facts regarding the situation were being withheld and As a result, if the Munich meet- (Continued On Page 4, Column 3)

REVEAL WORLD-WIDE EFFECT OF ROOSEVELT PEACE PLEA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Expressions of new hope of peaceful settlement of the German-Czechoslovakian dispute coincided today with revelation that President Roosevelt's effort to prevent war had extended almost worldwide.

Confronted with Rome reports that a Roosevelt message had been delivered to Prime Minister Mussolini, the White House acknowledged that one had been sent. It was a personal communication and the White House declined to publish the text.

Secretary Stephen T. Early said: "It was sent in the interest of world peace."

He refused to say whether a similar communication had been addressed to Tokyo. But word already had come from Japan that Ambassador Grew had asked the Japanese foreign minister to bring pressure for peaceful settlement of Europe's woes.

There was only one gloomy note in the capital today as American and most other officials found

STATE EYE MEN PLAN CONCLAVE

The California State Association of Optometry will convene at the Hotel Roosevelt, Hollywood, Sept. 30th, Oct. 1, 2, 3 to hold their annual Educational Congress. Noted professors and lecturers from all branches of the profession will speak on the various new phases and rapid development of optometry.

The latest diagnostic procedure and equipment will be demonstrated—new methods on eye exercises rather than the constant use of glasses represents one of the newer theories.

"Optometry is fast becoming one of the leading professions, particularly since the state universities nationwide have included it in their curriculum—taking it out of the private school class," local doctors declared. "Our own University of Berkeley has had optometry on the roster for about 7 or 8 years and has one of the most complete optometric courses in the country."

Orange county will be well represented, reports Dr. A. K. Loerch Jr., president of the Orange County Association of Optometry, who has been recently notified of his appointment as one of the three members of the California State Credential Committee, of this Educational Congress.

Those members of the Orange County Association of Optometry who are expected to attend are Doctors C. P. Kryhl, K. A. Loerch Sr., Harry Kendall, A. K. Loerch Jr., J. R. Wilcox, Roy Horton, D. R. E. Waters, F. K. Halber, Santa Ana, E. D. Pratt, E. H. Smith,

Tries 37-Mile Trip In Single-Seater Sub

His first attempt to navigate his one-man submarine from Michigan City, Ind., to the downtown Chicago lake front thwarted by choppy seas, Byron "Barney" Connett, of Chicago, pictured above in the underwater craft, was prepared to try the 37-mile voyage again. The fishlike craft is powered by an electric motor driven by storage batteries.

SIREN FOOLS COUNTRYSIDE
SOUTH YARMOUTH, Mass. (UP)—When the fire siren cut loose with a screech shortly after midnight—and kept up the din for an hour—residents of this community and four neighboring villages joined volunteer fire-fighters in a hunt for the blaze. Their nocturnal trek was futile. The alarm was caused by a short circuit—in the siren.

There are about 500 active volunteers in existence today.

Where Der Fuehrer Was Host

In this rambling white house nestled in the magnificent Bavarian mountains above Berchtesgaden, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, strongest political figure in the British Empire, sat down with Adolf Hitler, master of the Third Reich, to decide the fate of Europe. To this same retreat had come Kurt Schuschnigg just prior to the German seizure of Austria, and Konrad Henlein, Nazi leader in Czechoslovakia, before the Sudeten-Czech flare-ups.

WHISTLE IS TAKEN FROM LUNG OF BOY WITH RARE INSTRUMENT

When people get together to talk about their operations, Eddie Wilcox, 8 of Costa Mesa, will have the best yarn of them all. And if you doubt that, ask some of his school mates at Costa Mesa elementary school today.

For Eddie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Wilcox, 2029 Orange avenue, stumbled, fell, swallowed his tin whistle and later underwent one of the most delicate operations ever performed here. It saved him from an incurable case of pneumonia.

The x-ray man reported, when Eddie couldn't find his whistle and couldn't recall what happened to it, that he hadn't swallowed it. No, the x-ray plates showed a clear set of lungs. Then Eddie went back to play, began to wheeze. His father rushed him to St. Joseph hospital.

More x-rays, several more. At last they found the tin whistle tucked down in the farthest corner of the lowest lobe in Eddie's right lung, hardest spot in his body to get to in an operation.

Dr. Harvey C. Maxwell of Santa Ana administered ether, stuck a big tube down Eddie's throat, then a smaller one inside of that, then a metal instrument (a bronchoscope) which picks things up.

A 40-minute "workout" for the "doc" followed. The instrument which finally brought out a badly corroded whistle is one of two on the Pacific coast, one of five in the United States. The whistle's among Eddie's souvenirs at present.

NEW EDUCATIONAL PUBLICITY PROGRAM ADOPTED FOR CHEST

Additional developments in the program of educational publicity in connection with the coming Community Chest campaign, were announced today by W. B. Martin, public relations chairman for the charity and welfare appeal.

Chairman Martin stated that the constant aim of his department has been to secure the widest publicity, using features involving little or no expense to the Chest. "The newspapers are giving us the fullest measure of cooperation in their news and editorial columns, and in addition will donate a series of 4 column, 10-inch advertising spaces, featuring further information about the Community Chest and the agencies," Martin said.

Promote Understanding

The Agency Activities committee, under the chairmanship of D. G. Tidball, is carrying on a word-of-mouth publicity campaign, endeavoring to secure a better understanding of the charity and welfare needs of the community. This program got under way intensively following a mass meeting of agency board members at Community Chest headquarters on Monday evening.

Cooperation of the church groups and the ministers of the community has been assured by Rev. O. Scott McFarland, president of the Ministerial Association, and chairman of the Community Chest Church Cooperation committee. Ministers will be requested to carry information about the campaign in church bulletins, and to incorporate the chest theme in sermons and announcements, particularly on Sunday, October 9.

Ernest L. Spencer, chairman of the Radio committee, announced that he is planning a series of short announcements about the campaign, as well as a number of full 15-minute programs.

Report luncheon arrangements are being worked out by a committee under the chairmanship of Ernest M. Layton, which will provide entertainment and other special features for the benefit of volunteer workers during the report luncheon meetings to be held during the week beginning October 9.

Chairman Martin is himself taking charge of the speaking program in relation to the campaign, and announced that any organization wishing to have first hand information about the Community Chest will be supplied with a capable speaker upon request. "Every effort is being made by the Public Relations department to secure an understanding of the Community Chest program," Chairman Martin said. "We feel confident that when the good work accomplished by the eight agencies of the chest is thoroughly understood, subscriptions to the campaign will be made graciously and generously, and that Santa Ana will raise its full goal just as it did last year."

SAVANT DENIES AURORA SINGS

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Dr. A. S. Eve of McGill university disputes reputable witnesses by denying that the Northern Lights "sing".

In a study of the aurora borealis published here by the Smithsonian institution, Eve said the Northern Lights were in a near-vacuum some 60 miles above the earth.

"Thus, even if there is some mysterious mechanism for producing sound waves associated with the auroral phenomenon," the institution reported, "there is no medium through which these waves can travel to reach the ears of an observer on earth."

The institution admitted, however, that "witnesses assert that accompanying an auroral display there is a sound like a swish of a silk dress, a sword moving with blade broadside to the air, to the whistle of wind in the rigging of a ship."

Eve said the witnesses probably heard the "singing" sounds, but not from the Northern Lights.

"In dry, cold weather," he said, "there may be a small brush discharge from snow or brushes somewhat similar to St. Elmo's Fire seen on mountains, and sometimes as an electric discharge from the masts and rigging of a ship when the earth's voltage differs considerably from that of the air. Men cannot possibly hear the Northern Lights, which can make little or no noise, but they may hear something else not far from them, such as a local brush discharge."

MIDWAY CITY

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Kirkham motored to Long Beach to the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Millholland for an evening of cards.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. VonRohr entertained at dinner, Long Beach friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Burles. Another evening Mr. and Mrs. VonRohr and daughter, Sandra were dinner guests at an outdoor affair at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Houlihan. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Day were dinner guests in Los Angeles of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Foran, later attending a meeting of the Mystic Thirteen club of which Clyde Day is a member and in which program he took part.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts
The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or chewy foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much acid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sick, sick and upset all over.
Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-an for indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 250 package proves it. Ask for Bell-an for indigestion.

Chained for Sake of Love, Etc.

Found contentedly sitting in an automobile with her wrists chained to the steering wheel, Wilma Leaycraft, 18-year-old waitress from Neptune, N. J., told reporters and police that her sweetheart, Louis Tortariello, 24-year-old welder, had thus enmeshed her to keep her true to him while he was at work in a Linden, N. J., factory. Then, while a crowd watched, Tortariello came out and, as shown above, unchained her to take her for a walk and lunch. On being questioned by police, Tortariello admitted it was all a publicity stunt to be followed up by a wedding on horseback.

GETAWAY MADE ON W. FOURTH

Identified as those who robbed John Brunet, druggist at 1250 South Main, Saturday night, two bandits held up Charles A. Pedraja, druggist at 802 East Fourth, last night and robbed him of $32 cash.

While the men used but one weapon, an automatic pistol, in robbing Brunet, each of them had a pistol when they entered the store at 10:20 p. m. yesterday, police were informed. They not only opened the cash register at the Pedraja place but demanded Pedraja's wallet and got it.

Flight in Sedan
After the holdup, the pair fled to the street, hopped into a Ford V-8 sedan, same type of car used in fleeing from the Brunet store, and drove west on Fourth street at a high rate of speed.

One bandit is described as five feet, nine or 10 inches tall, about 25 years old, being blond and hatless, and wearing green sweater and light-colored trousers. The other was about the same height, and age, slim, had dark hair, dark shirt and dark suit. Officers A. F. Moulton and Cornish Roehm made the preliminary investigation without success. Detective Lieutenant Charles Wolford was to seek fingerprints today, from the cash register.

General Hugh S. JOHNSON SAYS

CINCINNATI, O.—If the hellward trend in Europe goes to its worst conclusion, war between the democracies and Europe, what will be the first step?

The answer must be something of a guess because there is no precedent for a clash of mass armies equipped at the very outset with great armadas of the air. Air fighting was a slow and gradual development in the World War. In its beginning aviators did not fight each other at all. They were merely observers and sometimes waved chivalrous greetings as they passed. Toward the end, the new strategy and tactics of aerial combat had well developed but the flying forces were insignificant in comparison with those today of France, England, Czechoslovakia and Russia—may be on the one hand, and Germany and Italy—perhaps on the other.

There is no precedent in China because the Chinese never had an important air force. There is none in Spain where there have been insufficient concentrations to serve as an example.

But in this possible case there are actual air armies, maybe 10 to 12 thousand planes on a side. Or how they will fight nobody can be quite sure.

One much emphasized use of an air force is to attack industrial areas thus paralyzing supply and "breaking the morale" of the civil population. Another certain purpose is to use the air force to observe enemy movements and to keep him from observing your own.

Finally, there is the use of aircraft as a fighting force against troops on the ground. The best defense against any of these uses is to drive off or destroy the enemy's air force.

Here we get back to basic tactical principles which are very old and well understood. Before aircraft, the military branch that was used for at least two of these purposes was the cavalry. Its job was to screen the front of the army, to obtain information of the enemy and even to raid behind his lines. The first clash of arms was usually a cavalry combat. The essential principle was to seek and if possible destroy the enemy cavalry force as rapidly as possible. The commander of a field army without cavalry was said to be "blind."

It seems almost certain that exactly this principle will apply to air forces in any such stupendous clash as now threatens. Therefore, before a mass assault on any of these strongly fortified lines, we can expect, I believe, the first and greatest air-battle on a massive scale in the history of the world.

Comparisons of air strength by stating the numbers of available planes are exceedingly tricky. The advance in speed and weight-carrying capacity has been so swift that yesterday's planes may be obsolete tomorrow. Nations are not very frank in giving information about military and naval aircraft. But Czechoslovakia alone is supposed to have 2500 excellent fighting ships and while Germany may have four or five thousand, she would have no superiority against the combined British, French and Czechoslovakian squadrons.

That is a fact that makes Hitler's swashbuckling seem so rash and dangerous. If, in the first aerial onslaught, Germany loses her air fleet or have it so badly crippled that the command of the air would pass to her enemies, her chances of victory could be cut in half in a single week. The consequences might be disastrous and hamper him hopelessly and permanently in any European war. A vast air fleet can't be improvised.

The air arm has become so important that it may now be like a great naval fleet, a threat rather than a weapon, the "fleet in being" even more important than the fleet victorious but hopelessly crippled. Be that as it may, der Fuehrer is certainly shooting craps with destiny.

GROWTH OF BUSINESS, INDUSTRY FEATURES ROTARY CLUB TALK

Problems encountered in the operation of a large department store and the growth of the cash register industry were recounted yesterday at the regular meeting of the Santa Ana Rotary club at the Masonic Temple.

Dana P. Washburn, manager of the independent merchant and the Montgomery Ward store of Santa Ana, was the first speaker on the program and Dudley Morrison, Santa Ana, representative of the National Cash Register company, was the second "craft talker."

Cites Personal Touch
Washburn declared that there was plenty of room left in the competition for the independent merchant and at best the large organization could serve only a small percentage of the people of a community. "The personal touch first industrial welfare and the first 'owl school' for employees," Morrison said.

Ed Guard, local druggist, was program chairman for the meeting.

P.-T. A. Members In First Meeting

PLACENTIA, Sept. 28.—But one way remains to keep democracy functioning and that way is to keep out of war, for as soon as democracies enter war, they are under dictators," Arthur Corey, public relations director of the California Teachers' association, former assistant superintendent of the Orange county schools, said last night at the first meeting of the Bradford avenue P.-T. A. It was the first meeting of the new year, with Mrs. George B.

Muir presiding. Howard Nordstrom was chairman of the evening and presented the speaker. Eighth grade mothers served refreshments at the close of the program.

NEW L. A. MAYOR CLEANS HOUSE. ASKS COMMISSIONERS TO QUIT

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28.—(UP)—City politics were in a turmoil today as the broom of new "reform" Mayor Fletcher Bowron swished through the city hall with a demand for resignations of every one of the 117 city commissioners.

Heads Of Four Powers To Meet

Just as Chamberlain neared the end of the speech, the message was handed him. He immediately announced it to the house.

A scene seldom matched in common sense. Members leaped to their feet, cheered and waved their papers.

Chamberlain had entered the House of Commons to tell the members of the situation to date.

He knew what a German march into Czechoslovakia would mean, for as he revealed in his speech. Hitler told him in plain words at their first Berchtesgaden conference that he (Hitler) would risk a war rather than defer a solution of his demands on Czechoslovakia.

Until the prime minister made his announcement of the 24 hour "reprieve", the house had received the speech with growing grimmace, interrupted by frequent loud, approving cheers as Chamberlain made various points.

Not since the World War has there been such tense anxiety in common. I have witnessed many debates in war time and Stanley Baldwin's announcement of the abdication of King Edward VIII, but even then such anxiety was not displayed.

The house was packed, breathless. Chamberlain received an unprecedented ovation when he entered.

Would Risk War

The speech was punctuated frequently by volleys of "hear, hear." When Chamberlain said Hitler had told him "rather than wait, he was prepared to risk a world war," a low, deep rumble swept the house.

The listeners laughed ironically when Chamberlain said Hitler had promised that Sudetenland was his last territorial ambition in Europe and again when the Prime Minister said Hitler mentioned "the awkward question of colonies."

When Chamberlain finished, Clement R. Attlee, labor leader, and Sir Archibald Sinclair, leader of the opposition liberals, welcomed his final announcement.

"Everyone wishes to give Mr. Chamberlain every opportunity to follow up the new move," Attlee said. "When the house is reassembled, the war clouds may be lifted."

The house cheered for several minutes and then adjourned until Monday.

Duce Involved

Chamberlain left for Downing street and began consulting his ministers on plans for the Munich meeting.

There around the conference table will sit the two Nazi-Fascist dictators and the leaders of the two great European democracies.

For the first time, Mussolini will be involved in direct negotiations of the Sudeten dispute, as will Daladier of France.

He has backed Hitler, and intimated that if a general war breaks out, the two totalitarian countries will fight "as one nation."

With all four countries represented by their top men the conference will be in a position to make a decision without loss of time.

The British-French efforts, it was understood here, will be directed primarily toward persuading Hitler to extend further his 24 hour delay in mobilization of his fighting forces.

May Ask Time

They may also ask for an extension of his Oct. 1 deadline.

It was understood Mussolini will be willing to join France and Britain in furnishing an international army to occupy the Sudetenland pending Czech evacuation.

The stumbling block may come in Hitler's insistence on immediate evacuation and the determined refusal of Czechoslovakia. The way out may be found in the suggestion from Berlin that a partial or "token" withdrawal of Czech troops may be accepted, along with a British-French guarantee that Czechoslovakia would carry out the agreed terms to the letter.

Heir To Get 100 Million Today

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Marshall Field III, grandson and namesake of the Chicago merchant prince, will receive today—his 45th birthday—a fortune estimated at $100,000,000. To get it he must only sign his name.

The fortune is only a slice of a $500,000,000 estate, one of world's greatest, which his grandfather left in trust for him under terms of an iron-clad will, a $22,000-word document said to be the longest and most foolproof of its kind ever written.

The exact amount in hundreds of millions that Field will inherit is not known, possibly not even by Field himself. He has declined to discuss the matter but attorneys who have handled the estate and close friends believed it would total $100,000,000 if not more.

Czech Troops Leave For Front

Scenes reminiscent of war days were reenacted at the Prague when Czech troops, prepared to sell their homeland dearly, left in improvised troop trains for the German frontier. Wives and kindreds were at the railroad station to bid them farewell and to hand out baskets of food. Pencil on the side of this box car in chalk is the legend: "We Will Not Give Up the Country—We Will Not Give In." ters could be accomplished through the farm bureaus. L. A. Bortz stated that ranch expenses cut down recently stopped right there. He believes, he said, cuts can be made in eliminating some services.

James Tufree, of the Golden Buckle parking plant, was asked to speak. He told of trying to get Orange county growers to organize a county exchange three years ago when he formed the one of which he is manager. If growers are satisfied with marketing conditions they are "kidding" themselves he said. Instead of growers running the exchange, he said, it is being run by the boys who sit in the swivel chairs. Growers haven't been squeezed quite enough, he declared. Too much is left to board of directors and packing house managers, he declared.

New members added to the present organization committee were Guy Steele, La Habra, George Randall, Orange, Dick Haster, Garden Grove and S. Bellew, Anaheim.

Germany Still Likes Zeppelins

Despite the fact that her greatest Zeppelin, the Hindenburg, was lost in the world's most frightful air disaster, Germany has not lost her faith in lighter-than-air craft. Pictured here is the first test trial of a new Zeppelin, the Graf Zeppelin, on her first test trial at Friedrichshafen. Sistership of the Hindenburg, whose hydrogen exploded, the Graf is also hydrogen-filled, due to the U.S. ban on the exportation of non-inflatable helium.

Hurban, after a conference with J. Pierpont Moffatt, chief of the division of European affairs, said there were definite benefits that might be obtained from the conference but added it might also prove to be a vehicle for further pressure on Czechoslovakia.

Officials Silent

Department officials refused to say that a general concerted move was taking place through American diplomatic channels to encourage peace, but in answer to the questions pointed again to Secretary Hull's general statement regarding this country's efforts to promote peace.

American naval movements linked with Europe's troubles continued. Three light cruisers were ordered from San Diego to the Atlantic coast. Officials said here they did not know whether the ships actually had sailed.

German Ambassador Hans Heinrich Dieckhoff made an appointment to confer with Hull and Assistant Secretary of State Sumner Welles during the morning.

May End Crisis

After the conference Dieckhoff said the Munich meeting may open the way for general settlement of outstanding European problems in addition to the German-Czech controversy.

He said the four power conference made the situation "a great deal more hopeful."

President Roosevelt, in his message to Hitler last night, had suggested a conference to settle the Sudeten question.

To Hitler's statement that the war choice lies with his small neighbor, Mr. Roosevelt replied that negotiations still stand open, and:

"Up to Hitler

"They can be continued if you will give the word."

This appeal was sent only to Hitler. Mr. Roosevelt's first message of Monday was addressed directly and personally to Hitler and President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia, and advisory copies were sent through regular diplomatic channels to the prime ministers of Great Britain and France.

The President acted after a day of abrupt developments. Two American naval vessels steamed eastward over the Atlantic for British ports. The state department advised Americans to avoid Europe unless they had essential business there.

Passenger carrying limitations on American commercial vessels were lifted by the commerce department to facilitate homeward movement of citizens.

Urged Conference

Mr. Roosevelt suggested to the

The royalties, reaching a maximum of 66 per cent, are on a sliding scale, beginning with a minimum of 12 1/2 per cent on 80 barrels a day or less and mounting to the peak return. The agreement is for a 20-year period with an option for renewal if the wells continue to produce.

Rights of direct drilling from uplands into state-owned pools adjacent to Huntington Beach are provided. Offset of drainage is accomplished under the agreement without pollution of tide-waters or beaches, it was said.

The agreement also contains the condition that no drilling operations shall cause interference with bathing, fishing or navigation. All machinery and appliances are to be located only on uplands, and all surface operations must be conducted there.

Upland owners specified in the lease are the Huntington Beach company, Standard Oil company of California, Pacific Electric company, Pacific Electric Land company, Bolsa Land company and Bolsa-Chica gun club.

The lease was granted by authority of the State Lands act of 1938, passed last March by special session of the legislature. Members of the State Lands commission created by the act were Director of Finance Stockburger, Lieut. Gov. Hatfield and State Controller Riley.

Dr. E. K. Soper, associate professor of geology at U.C.L.A., acted as consulting adviser to the commission.

Thirty per cent of the net revenue to the state has been allocated for the acquisition and maintenance of state parks and beaches.

Force Failed

"The world asks of us who at this moment are heads of nations," he told Hitler, "the supreme capacity to achieve the destinies of nations without forcing upon them as a price, the mutilation and death of millions of citizens."

"Resort to force in the great war failed to bring tranquility, Victory and defeat alike were sterile. That lesson the world should have learned."

"Present negotiations still stand open. They can be continued if you will give the word. Should the need for supplementing them become evident, nothing stands in the way of widening their scope in a conference of all the nations directly interested in the present controversy."

"Such a meeting to be held immediately—in some neutral spot in Europe—would offer the opportunity for this and correlated questions to be solved in a spirit of justice, or fair dealing, and in all human probability, with greater permanence."

He said that the German-Czechoslovakian differences "could" and "should" be settled and that use of force leading to general war "is as unnecessary as it is unjustifiable."

"Whatever existing differences may be," he said, "and whatever their merits may be—and upon them I do not and need not undertake to pass—my appeal (Monday) was solely that negotiations be continued until a peaceful settlement is found, and that thereby a resort to force be avoided."

Agreement to peaceful solution by negotiations, the President said, would win Hitler recognition for outstanding service to humanity, but he added:

Held Accountable

"Allow me to state my qualified conviction that history, and the souls of every man, woman and child whose lives will be lost in the threatened war will hold us and all of us accountable should we omit any appeal for its prevention."

"The government of the United States has no political involvements in Europe, and will assume no obligations in the conduct of the present negotiations. Yet in our own right we recognize our responsibilities as a part of a world of neighbors."

"The conscience and the impelling desire of the people of my country demand that the voice of their government be raised again and yet again to avert and to avoid war."

The resolution was directed to the state board of equalization protesting an application of the Legion post for an on-sale license to sell beer in Legion hall, and asking that a hearing on the matter be held in the Costa Mesa district.

More than 200 names were signed to the protest laid before the supervisors by a delegation of women which included Mesdames Donald Gibson, Hubert Kidder, Donald J. Dodge, Doris Pilley, Everett Rea and Hazel Pilley.

War Effects Bids

PRESCOTT, ARIZ., Sept. 28.—(UP)—Widespread effects of Europe's threatening war were felt here today when bids were submitted for the new Prescott high school bonds.

LAST ROUND RALLY
EARNS BRAY DRAW

The crowd of 6000 booed although Crowell was on his knees and saved from a knockout by the end bell. Crowell at 202 had a three pound advantage.

Frenchmen should not fight for Czechoslovakia.

Workmen closed the Louvre and all other national museums and moved their art treasures out of range of enemy bombers.

BERLIN, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Nazi circles indicated belief today that Fuehrer Adolf Hitler would accept a "token withdrawal" of Czech troops from Sudetenland by Saturday as a basis for peaceful settlement of the Central European crisis.

Coincident with disclosure of arrangements for a four-power peace conference at Munich tomorrow, it was said that if the Czechs consented before the October 1 deadline to make a gesture of withdrawing from the frontier area that it would be acceptable if assurances were given that full withdrawal would be completed later.

Action Planned

The rapid developments today followed preparations by Germany that left little question that drastic action was planned.

German steamship lines had begun recalling their ships on the high seas this morning and cancelling sailings from German ports according to the lines of President Roosevelt's messages.

One of the ships recalled, it was understood, was the crack liner Europa, which sailed for New York yesterday from Bremen harbor. The Hamburg, due to sail tomorrow, will be held in port "for the time being," the Hamburg-American line said. Passengers were advised to remain at Hamburg.

Urged Home

German authorities at Vienna announced that passenger and freight traffic on the Danube, the great artery to the Black Sea, has been interrupted "for the time being" in the Vienna-Budapest reach, which lies between Austria and Hungary on one side and Czechoslovakia on the other.

American embassy and consulate officials began advising inquirers to leave for home as soon as possible unless they had valid reasons for remaining.

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 28.—(UP)—Pope Pius has decided to broadcast a plea for peace, at 9:30 p. m. tomorrow (12:30 p. m. EST tomorrow) it was announced today.

Vatican authorities said that the Pope had been most anxious regarding the international situation and decided this morning to broadcast an appeal for peace.

Diplomats considered his decision of unusual significance in view of the fact that Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, who usually aids the Pope in preparing radio addresses, left Monday for his annual vacation

COUNTY C. OF C. HEARS NEEDS OF RAILWAY

P. E. ENGINEER TALKS AT BEACH

Painting a serious situation confronting the Pacific Electric Railway company as it faces its $50,000,000 indebtedness and its decreased passenger transportation because of the use of automobiles, Arthur C. Jenkins, engineer of the California State Railroad Commission, spoke at the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce held at the Golden Bear cafe in Huntington Beach last night.

A hearing on a change of rates for the railway company and the Motor Transit company will be conducted at 10 a. m. tomorrow in the state building, Los Angeles, by the railroad commission, it was announced by the speaker.

Jenkins told of the survey that he is making for the purpose of finding out how passenger service can be improved, transportation increased, and operating expenses lessened.

Jenkins' survey contended that the company is in need of equipment and facilities to accommodate the people of the 59 incorporated communities and many unincorporated communities of the districts which is covered by 1100 miles of track. "But that equipment is the big problem, and people would return to the inter-urban service if the company could give the comforts of traveling demanded today," he said.

John Crill, vice president of the association, who presided in the absence of President Harry Arthur of Anaheim, declared that he did not know what would happen to the packing houses in Garden Grove if freight service over the Pacific Electric would be discontinued.

Secretary Harry Welch of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce, presented a revised resolution made by the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce concerning the purchase of 10,900 feet of beach frontage lying between the two cities represented by the civic bodies. The association adopted a motion to have the new resolution presented to the board of directors to be passed upon.

W. H. Gallienne, secretary of the Huntington Beach organization, and W. J. Bristol, chairman of the beach committee, leading in the proposed purchase plan, discussed the matter. Gallienne gave the price of the land at $55 a front foot or a total cost of $599,500 which the organizations were seeking to have the state pay out of the tideland oil pool revenue.

Dr. C. G. Huston, chairman of the safety committee, gave a report of the recent convention of the western division of the safety council.

Londoners Shocked But Calm In Crisis

Repercussions among the people over the crushing of Czechoslovakia are demonstrated by the huge crowds that gathered in the streets. The photo above shows anxious Britons massed in London's Whitehall to find out at first-hand the latest development in the dangerous situation on the continent, which now appears far from settled.

EVIDENCE ENDS IN JUSTICE SUIT

Final evidence in the civil suit filed in Santa Ana justice court against Douglas L. Edmonds, justice of the state supreme court, was in the hands of Judge Kenneth E. Morrison today as he took the case under submission. The evidence was gleaned from Los Angeles title records.

The official representing the highest court in the state is being sued in the lowest court of the state for recovery of $420 which Mrs. Mary R. Dillon, La Habra, alleges is due her.

"Not From the Trust" Justice Edmonds contended stock owned by Mrs. Dillon in apartment houses was bought from Peter Elvold, one of many defendants, as an individual and not from the trust which it was said Judge Edmonds helped to manage in operation of apartment houses.

Mrs. Dillon alleged Justice Edmonds failed to keep his word in guaranteeing returns to her from her $2000 investment. Now the plaintiff has 10 days to file a brief, the defense has another 10 days to file an answer and both sides have five days to reply to the briefs. Then Judge Morrison has 30 days to render a decision.

"SHE LOST IT" — HER LITTLE MUSCOVY DUCK; HUNT BEGINS

The county board of supervisors and the gun clubs of the county are not the only ones who have their troubles with ducks. Not by a long shot.

The latest duck trouble is centered around City Poundmaster Harold Pickering. And it's not only a ruddy duck but a white muscovy.

Girl Makes Call Last Sunday morning a little girl who failed to leave her name or address with Pickering called at the pound and asked if anyone had found her duck. No one had. Later in the day, at the corner of First and Shelton streets, according to Pickering, a white muscovy duck made a three-point landing where it was picked up and taken to the pound.

"It just so happens that we are very fond of ducks and we are torn between love of duck and love of duty," Pickering said today. "We are slowly losing our firm resolutions and if someone doesn't claim the duck soon the Pickering's are going to have roast duck."

TELLS COURT HIS CLIENT USES MARIJUANA TO CURE AILMENTS

Atty. Harry Westover declared in open court yesterday afternoon at the arraignment of Arthur B. Cline, 56, Corona Del Mar, before Justice Kenneth Morrison, that Cline used marijuana cigarettes for relief of a bronchial ailment, but for no other purpose. Westover is Cline's attorney.

The commission, officials reported, followed Cline's arrest by Deputy Sheriffs Fred Swayze and Ives Brown as he left the courthouse after visiting the board of supervisors. He was charged with possession of the "reefers" although officers, with his consent, examined his person, apartment and automobile without locating any.

Preliminary Hearing Set Preliminary hearing was set by Judge Morrison for this afternoon and, on recommendation of District Attorney William Menton, Cline was released on his own recognizance.

SUGAR BEET ALLOTMENT IN COUNTY NEXT SEASON LOOMS

Possibility of the allotment of sugar beet acreage in Orange county in 1939 loomed today, according to John Burnett, secretary of the Agricultural Conservation association, as the result of a surplus of sugar beets during the current year.

"While it is impossible to say just what the allotment will be, if any," Burnett said today, "advance notices sent to us from the Department of Agriculture indicate the possibility of allotting the acreage of those who wish to comply with practices under the Sugar Act of 1937."

The Sugar Act of 1937 required the establishment of proportionate shares for each farm in various domestic sugar beet areas. There was no sugar beet acreage allotment for 1938 but the 1939 sugar beet crop is estimated at 1,030,000 acres with allowance for shrinkage.

Burnett pointed out that a 10 per cent reduction of the nation's acreage would mean a corresponding 10 per cent reduction of sugar beets in Orange county.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murdy, proprietors of the Huntington Dairy, have left for a three weeks' trip to Oklahoma and to Mrs. Murdy's former home in Missouri. ## REGISTER OR FORFEIT VOTE

Tomorrow is the last day to register for the November 8 election.

There are certain classes of persons who must register either today or tomorrow to qualify to vote on important propositions, issues and candidates in November. They are:

Those who will attain the age of 21 before November 8.

Those who will complete a year of residence in the state by November 8, the last 30 days of which must have been in the county.

Those who have moved or who move into another precinct before close of registration tomorrow.

Those who failed to vote in general election in 1936 and have not registered since.

Citizens should make sure they have qualified to vote. If there is any doubt in your mind call Basil Smith, county clerk, and he will enlighten you.

The fact that you did not vote at the August primaries does not disqualify one to vote on November 8.

With conditions in the state as they are now, nationally and statewide, every citizen should exercise his right to vote and do his part to place only qualified men, and persons capable of thinking for themselves, in office.

THE RIGHT TO SECEDE

The question of self-determination of a people as to whether they have a right to secede is as old as governments. The question, of course, now is whether the Germans in Sudeten and their territory have a right to secede and join Germany. Another question is whether they have had a free plebiscite without intimidation and actually know the will of the people in the territory. We presume the question of whether they have a right to secede or not will be decided, as it always has in the past—whether they, together with their allies, are stronger than the group opposing the secession.

When the South desired to secede, the North declared that they had no right and used force to prevent them from seceding.

What the result would have been, had they seceded and permitted free trade in the South and not have been compelled to pay tribute to the protective manufacturers, is a question no one can answer.

The people in the 13 original states some 160 years ago, believed that they had a right to secede with their territory from England.

So we, in the United States, have taken the two opposite positions and we should not be too hasty in making up our minds as to the merits of the Sudeten Germans in Czechoslovakia. Having decided both ways in our own country, it is impossible to be 100 per cent consistent.

KEEP THE ENEMY RUNNING

There is nothing like keeping an enemy on the run once you get him started. Remarkable gains have been made in automobile accident prevention this year. There is greater cooperation on all sides to prevent death and injury than ever before.

It has become generally acknowledged that in addition to educating the public on safety measures, it is equally important to build roads, intersections and automobiles in such a manner as to make accidents more nearly impossible.

In studying the mechanical conditions which tend to create accidents, in spite of the driver's ability, the question of road visibility from the car is now receiving particular attention. It becomes apparent that in recent years, practical vision of the driver, as well as other occupants of the car, has been impaired by the craze for streamlined effect.

According to Arthur W. Stevens, a member of the Society of Automotive Engineers, the 1938 motorist has a range forward, useful vision which is only one-eighth of that of a man walking; and while cars are about 50 per cent faster than they were 17 years ago, the driver's visibility has been reduced 38 per cent.

No wonder "vision" from the inside of an automobile is coming in for a checking up in the accident prevention drive. With safety-glass, which is universally used in automobiles, there seems to be no good reason for designing cars with less visibility. Greater visibility will help keep the enemy (motor accidents) on the run.

WHAT'S MONEY AMONG FRIENDS?

(Daily Oklahoman)

The make-up of Oklahoma City's school board is not such as to inspire confidence. With the exception of one member, it was not selected by the taxpayers, and that one exception was given a rousing vote of no-confidence in the city when he ran for a state office.

Now the board craves to spend a trifling matter of $300,000 of local cash, plus $800,000 of federal funds, in new buildings and improvements.

During recent years the minds of many public officials have become benumbed to the impact of spending. It used to be that a thousand dollars were a thousand dollars. Now it requires extraordinary mental concentration to tell the difference between a million and a billion. This is especially true in watching the federal money go by. This, as many listeners to bedtime stories fondly believe, is jerked by magic out of a hat and will never, never have to be paid back. The magnificent gestures of reckless spenders have become contagious, and in many local municipalities are imitating the grand manner of Washington.

You may imagine the impatience of the present board members at the idea of caution. "Phooey—what's a little matter of $800,000—or is it $3,000,000?" one can almost hear them exclaim, as they express disgust at the rising tide of opposition.

There is only one thing sure about this transaction, which is that the people of Oklahoma City will have to pay the $800,000, whether it goes for actual buildings or actual repairs, or imaginary blackboards, trapezes and giant strides—no matter whether termites get into the treasury and gnaw off big hunks of money.

IF WAR COMES

(Chicago Tribune)

President Roosevelt's note to Czechoslovakia, Germany, Britain, and France expressed the desire of all Americans that peace may be preserved in Europe. No nation, not even a victorious one, stands to gain as much as it will lose from a protracted war. That seems obvious to us in this country and probably it is equally well known in every chancellery in Europe.

The note might have carried greater force if Mr. Roosevelt had not already aligned himself in un-

"WHY IS THE UNITED STATES SO RICH?"

The question as to why wages are so high in the United States and the country so rich is usually answered by the great mass of people, "because we have so many natural resources." Inasmuch as this is the current belief, as generally taught and stressed, a statement made by Dr. Carl Snyder, former president of the American Statistical association and for many years with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, at a recent address in Boston, is worth thoughtful consideration.

In answering the question why the United States is so rich, he said: "Abundant natural resources is not the answer because Mexico, our next door neighbor, has great resources but is not wealthy, and has a wage level about one-tenth that of the United States. The basic explanation is simple: Wealth comes from the supply of capital and will be great and will increase most rapidly where there is the most capital."

But Dr. Snyder did not explain how we ever accumulated so much capital and this is the thing that is of the utmost importance that people should begin to understand, if we are to retain this great amount of capital and the high wages made possible because of capital.

The accumulation of large amounts of capital have never occurred except with where the people permit the greatest possible liberty and initiative of the individual to create wealth and manage it without interference from the government. With all favorable natural conditions to the degree that any nation approaches freedom to create wealth, not destroy wealth or lives, does that nation accumulate capital.

Mexico has not accumulated capital because it has never had the foresight to permit people with ingenuity to develop their natural resources. And natural resources that are not developed by the initiative and foresight of man are, of course, of little value.

It is for this reason that we have been constantly repeating, in season and out, that our progress has been checked and is now even receding because our government has made so many laws, such as a graduated tax on the man who produces wealth, instead of a graduated tax on the man who subtracts from the wealth (the tools of the country). So long as we continue this practice, a theory established 25 years ago, we will not add to the capital of the world nearly so rapidly as if we put no tax on the production of capital. In fact, when we put too large a tax on production of wealth, as we have been doing the last decade, the total capital will gradually get less and as a result the real wages will be lower and the average standard of living will be reduced.

The fundamental problem, of course, is to have the government do what all governments were originally intended to do; namely, protect the people from outside aggression and from aggression within and let the initiative of private citizens do the rest.

HUGH JOHNSON'S PRICE ECONOMICS

It is evident from reading Hugh Johnson's articles that he has not learned much about the law of supply and demand since he was head of the NRA. In his article about over-production of coal, he says "the price went down and down until few if any companies were getting for their coal more than 70 per cent of what it cost them to bring it to the surface."

That is just simply a silly statement. The writer happened to be interested in a coal mine, bought during the war time. When coal was a good price and above our cost, we continued to mine; when it became lower than our cost, we discontinued operation.

Another place in the article, he makes the statement, "It is not the individual consumer who gets any benefit from this collapsed price structure except indirectly." And he puts a question mark after "indirectly." He says it is the great industrial, railroad and public utilities that get the benefit. If the rates on utilities and railroads are regulated and if they buy coal cheaper they are certainly getting the benefits; and this is reflected in lower rates. In a country where coal is used for heating homes, competition compels this low price to be passed on in most every case.

It is evident that Johnson is still impregnated with the idea that he or some other government agency should have the right to determine how much each individual should produce, where each man should work and what each man should be paid and the law of freedom of contract and a free enterprise should be taken over by some super-man, as Johnson evidently thinks he is. It is, however, just an example of how difficult it is to get people who are fairly rational in some things to admit an error and become consistent.

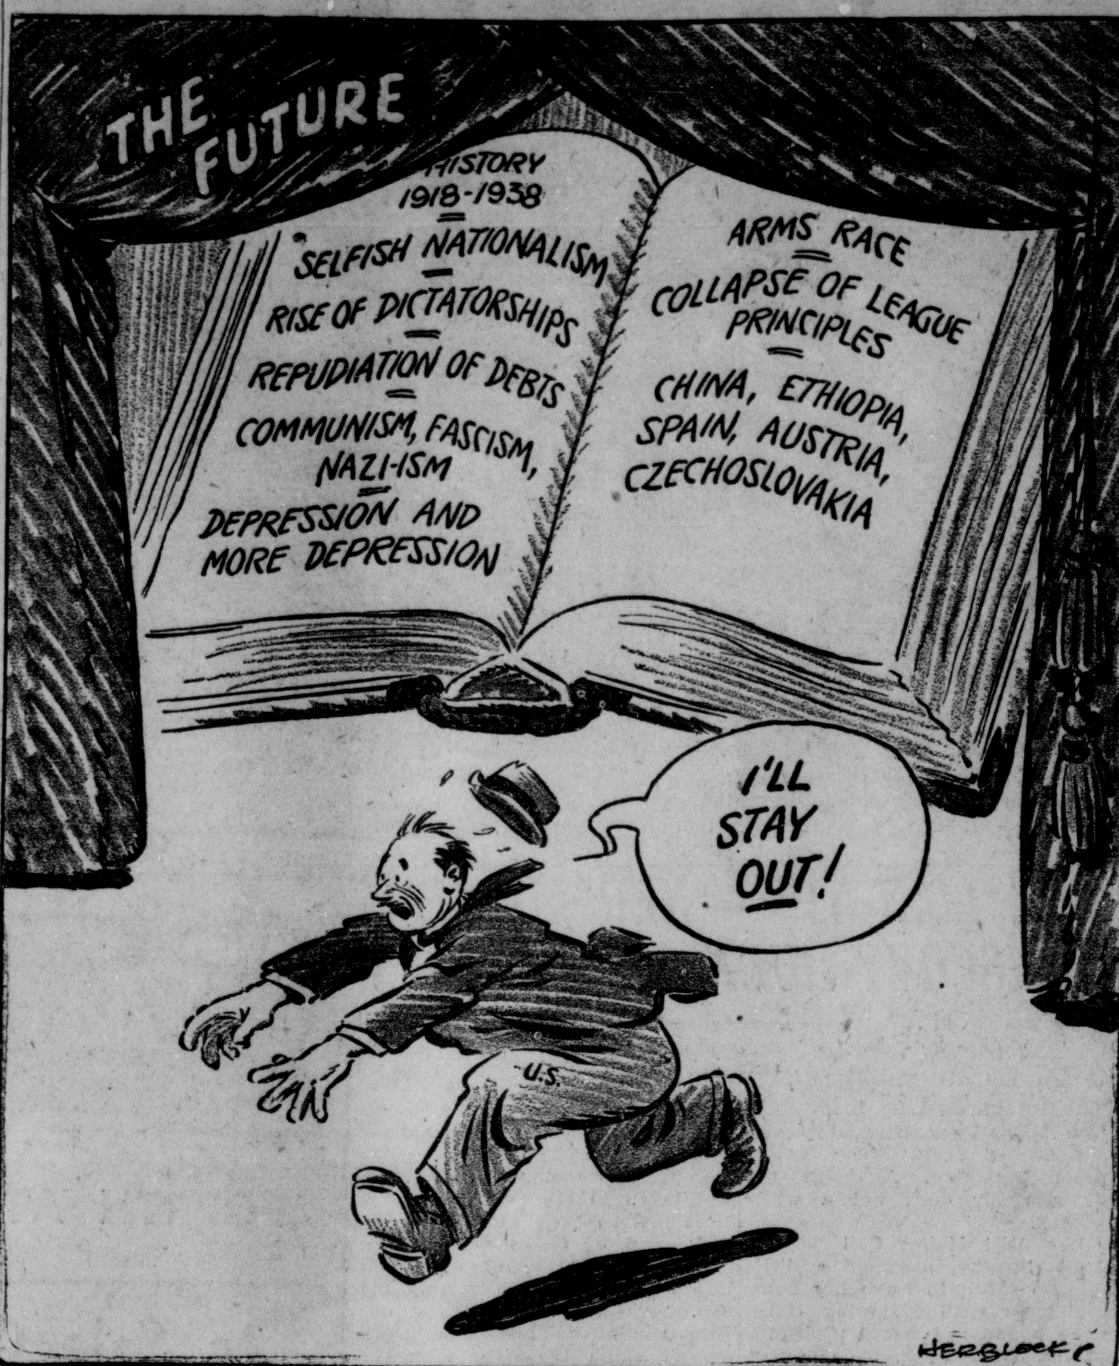

mistakable terms against Germany and her allies. In the quarantine speech at the dedication of the out-er bridge in Chicago Mr. Roosevelt definitely took sides. To that extent he is no longer able to speak as the leader of neutral opinion in the world. It is significant that no responsible English or French statesman has gone so far; indeed, the English and French have agreed to accept demands of precisely the sort which Mr. Roosevelt characterized as aggressions which he said must be met with the war-like measure of quarantine.

Still we may hope for the best, which is to say that we may hope that Mr. Roosevelt's note will be recognized as a sincere expression of good will and nothing more. The danger is that it will be read as a new venture in Wilsonian diplomacy, a first step toward an ultimate intervention. Americans who remember the note writing between 1914 and 1917 cannot fail to recall how earnest were our protestations of peaceful purpose in a warring world. One note led to another, however, with results which are all too familiar.

With this reservation, Mr. Roosevelt's note has the approval of the American people. We must continue to hope that war will be averted, but the temper of Mr. Hitler's speech is none too reassuring. The character of the war, if it comes, can already be foreshadowed.

The British navy today is in relatively a stronger position than it occupied in 1914. Germany can be blockaded fully as effectively as it was in the latter part of the last war and the British will have enough ships to impose, in combination with France, a tight blockade of Italy should she join Germany as an ally. Germany will be deprived of overseas commerce and so will Italy by a blockade of the Mediterranean at both ends.

FUNNY MONEY—OR—PROMISES FOR PENNIES

Editor Register:

A critic of the undersigned in your issue of Friday, Sept. 16, signs himself "Yours for information." I will give him some! I said in a former letter that the only success of the "Townsend Plan" has been for its promoters. He replies by asking "What does he (Mr. Weeks) say to the doubling of the Townsend Plan membership in the last six months?" Only this! That the same kind of bait hooks the same kind of fish. Or, as Barnum puts it: "One is born every minute." Success means "dues and fees" to Townsend and Clements, and quite another thing to their members. My critic further asks: "What objection has Mr. Weeks to the 'Townsend Plan'?" This—among others—that I observe that all the pennies go to the promoters and all the promises to the members. For, in Chicago, in 1935, at the first Townsendite convention, Dr. Townsend told reporters, that the OARP (Old Age Retirement Plan) had taken in from membership fees, dues, etc., $1,200,000. Secretary Clements before a House committee investigation, said that he, alone, had made more than $70,000 in one year from the plan. A $60 wool suit under the transaction tax, from the sheep to the customer, would cost the sum of $200. Moreover, that the proposed taxes were equal to more than one-third of the national income for 1937.

When these facts were brought to his attention, Dr. Townsend replied, "My plan is too simple to be comprehended by great minds." Probably that is why this funny money plan appeals to "little minds." For, that is the obvious inference, though uncomplimentary to Dr. Townsend's followers. The fact is, most of these Utopias, which promise to enrich Jones at Smith's expense come from people who have failed at their own chosen profession and so propose to show the world how to succeed. These social quacks are fond of quoting figures to show that conditions need improvement. We all know that is so. But they will not be improved by the quack nostrums of acknowledged failures and racketeers, who have a personal axe to grind, like the shifty politicians, who used the various pension plans to get votes at the election ducked and dodged the issue, as we knew they would.

These promoters of "social and financial salvation for all" are making a living out of other people's grievances. It is the last refuge of the failures! They steal the machinery of a great political party and wreck its hopes of success. Like the cuckoo, they lay their eggs in other bird's nests. They venomously abuse President Roosevelt and yet use his prestige and party! Make promoters of "funny money" think they are voting in the Democratic party and that the election next November is between Republicans and Democrats. It is nothing of the sort. It is between sanity and silliness. When Saul and David quarreled, it resulted in a new party and this is how the Bible tells us the story:

"David therefore departed thence, and escaped to the cave of Adullam. And every one that was in distress, and every one that was discontented, gathered themselves unto him, and he became a captain over them." 1 Samuel, Chapter XXII, verses 1 and 2.

This describes the issue next November! But in this case, the Adullamites have no David to lead them, but—Downey—who is certainly no David! So the issue is between the Utopians and the rest of the citizenry of the State of California.

HENRY WEEKS.
Laguna Beach, Cal.
Sept. 22, 1938.

NOTE: Downey—for senator on the Adullam ticket—was formerly Dr. Townsend's personal attorney. He was also connected with the Technocrats, the Epics and—anything that came along. Townsend was once a Kansas school teacher. Then a doctor. Then a health officer in Long Beach, then he lost his job and tried to live on commissions in Clements' real estate office. Then Dr. Townsend labored and brought forth his "Plan" which he tells us is "too simple for great minds." A conclusion we agree with.—H. W.

Fellow Citizens:

A paper was left at my house containing an article written by Rev. Perry Schrock, stating that he was going to vote for the Junior College "because he was a Christian."

It is not often a minister is brave enough to face the music of open discussion. Usually, they hide behind their pulpits, where they are safe from critical rebuttal. I would like to ask Mr. Schrock: "Since when has the church the right to brand voters as Christian or non-Christian, according to whether they vote yes or no on a debatable proposition?" Instead of being a mark of ministerial wisdom, his article was pure stupidity, playing to the gallery. The reverend gentleman is welcome to his own viewpoint, but to brand himself "a Christian" solely because he preferred to vote yes on the proposition, is ignorance of the true nature of Christianity.

Christianity according to its Founder was the determination to be kind, and do what was right under all circumstances. It was not interested in dogmas or creeds. It was a social program which championed the cause of the poor, the needy, and the afflicted against unfair standards.

Why should the poor be taxed to support a Junior College from which he has little or no chance of gaining any benefits? The minister's children are in college—what of it? With his salary and special rebate, he can afford the expense. But the laboring classes find it difficult to clothe their children for grammar and high school. Many have to leave school in order to help keep the home fire burning. The children of parents who are not holding "white collar jobs," willingly sacrifice higher education to help keep the home together. Why should the working classes be burdened by higher taxes, to give free education to students who are often more interested in athletics or putting in time, than gaining a useful education? The student who has to work his way through college is more likely to get more out of his course, than the one who obtains an education at no expense or effort to himself.

I champion the cause of those who voted "No" on the issue. Not because I am against education, but simply because Christianity gives the individual the right to vote according to the dictates of his own conscience, freedom, and the pursuit of happiness.

Christianity does not recognize the right of a majority to oppress a minority. It does not champion the cause of a privileged class against those who are the underdogs. Christianity is a program of social deism, and cannot be limited to the narrowness advocated by Mr. Schrock. True education means more than passing a grade. It consists in the ability to make a contribution to society. It is not the ideal—what can we get for nothing, but what can we give. Jesus taught that the greatest was the one who contributed the most. The 12 disciples were uneducated men according to scholastic standards, but they understood the problems of life, and offered a solution. Later, when Christianity was championed by a scholar, it was misinterpreted, and its true idealism lost.

EDWIN O. COLBECK.

Fellow Citizens: In a recent article Mr. A. E. Thomas laments the fact that so many people consider the Townsend plan as a "pension" plan rather than a "financial recovery" plan. How could a pension plan and a recovery plan be combined? It would be as difficult as it is to mix oil and water. A financial recovery plan would propose the reduction of taxes, economy, and putting all men to productive labor. The Townsend pension plan proposes just the opposite. I cannot understand why Mr. Thomas in his article, was through the maze of taxes and transfers and turnovers, etc., to find the total cost of the Townsend pension plan to the taxpayers of the United States. The cost of any pension plan is the amount paid the pensioners plus the cost of operation. This is self evident. The Townsend plan proposes to pay $200 per month to approximately eight million pensioners. The total cost will be approximately 20 billion dollars per year. With eight million non-producers there would be no increase in the total wealth of the nation. The wealth at present, not counting the 40 billion dollar debt, is about 300 billion dollars. In just fifteen years, if the Townsend plan were a federal law, every dollar of wealth in the nation would be in the possession of eight million pensioners, over 60 years of age. The sons and daughters and grand children would be penniless. Any pension plan that proposes to transfer four or five times as much property to pensioners each month as the average salary of the producers, is a "dividing up" process. It is a method for the equal distribution of wealth among all the people.

Enacted into a federal law such a plan within a few years would transfer wealth from the richer states, such as California, to the poorer states and the average wealth of the citizens of each state would be near the same.

In fact a federal pension law would cost California taxpayers twice as much per capita as a state pension law, because the

A System of Coercion

By GUS W. DYER

Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University

Relief, as administered by the Federal government, is rapidly developing into the greatest organization of political bribery and coercion ever known in the history of democracy. Bribery and coercion are not incidental to the system, nor the result of the abuses of the system. They are the outstanding vital factors in the system, as promoted and operated by the government.

Emergency relief might have been turned over to a non-partisan organization, such as the Red Cross, or it might have been turned over to the several states to be administered through the community chest system, or other similar non-political systems. But the administration failed to adopt any of these non-political plans. The plan of the administration from the beginning has been for Congress to turn over the billions of dollars appropriated for relief to the President, as a discretionary fund to be distributed by him as he pleases.

To understand the effectiveness of this system from a political point of view, the fact must be kept in mind that the average man does not comprehend abstract principles, no matter how sound and fundamental they may be. It is only when these principles are put in action by an individual that they can be understood, and then, it is the individual rather than the principles that is recognized. Hence the millions who are receiving special aid from the government seldom think of this aid as coming from the government, or even from the representatives of the government in Congress. To them the President is their benefactor. And the President has declared himself to be, and is the leader of the political party in power.

Under this skillfully devised system of relief, the leader of a political party has the power to withhold aid from one state and give unusual aid to another. He has the power to give special aid to certain communities and groups, and curtail the aid to other communities and groups. This condition of things puts millions on the "wants" list. It is to the interest of all communities, organizations and individuals who want special aid from the government to please the party in power. They must endorse the things it endorses, and support the candidates for office that it wants to see elected.

Under this system Mr. Hopkins, the Administrator of the system, says that ninety per cent of those receiving aid will support Mr. Roosevelt politically. He adds that it is not necessary to tell these people how to vote. Of course not. It is only necessary to tell the average man how to vote when the issue at stake is "Do I want the payments to continue?" Through persuasion and coercion a large proportion of the indigent ten per cent may be brought into line.

The system as directed by the administration subjects every Congressman to a condition of coercion. If his course in Congress is displeasing to the distributor of gifts to millions of voters, he is in danger of defeat at the polls by the recipients of the gifts.

The Senate Committee, composed chiefly of New Dealers, appointed to study the use of relief money in politics, observes that "organized forces are being made to control the votes of those on relief work, and that this imperils the right of the people to a free and unpolled ballot." Why should we look for anything else from a system that is subversive of the very foundation of democratic government?

The Governor of Kentucky says that the WPA forces were increased from 30,000 to 68,000 after he announced against Barkley, the administration's candidate. Each of the 68,000 controlled on an average three votes among his relatives who wanted to see him keep his job, this meant a vote of 270,000—a vote practically sufficient to nominate the candidate desired by the administration.

But is encouraging that the seemingly invincible system of bribery and coercion is going down before the onslaughts of American independence.

News Behind The News

By PAUL MALLON

World Copyright 1938 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Mr. Roosevelt's diplomatic advisers have been working within on the assumption that the European crisis turned from a military situation to a political problem after the first Hitler-Chamberlain conversations.

Up to then, troops were moving. Military reasoning prevailed. Advisers were confident for that assuring reason there would be no general outbreak.

After negotiations started, the situation turned purely political. Hitler and Benes both were trying to get as much out of a settlement as they could. While this seemed to diminish the war chance even more, it created a diplomatic situation where statesmen could not call the turn on what to expect next.

In fact, their confidence that peace would certainly prevail was so visibly shaken they would not guarantee to maintain it until it could get into print.

The President's appeal to Hitler and Benes was his own idea, one he has been nursing along through the long series of recent crisis for an opportunity. The right moment was chosen by State Secretary Hull. Crafty wording is credited, in part, on the inside, to Hull and his assistants, Berle and Welles and J. Pierpont Moffatt.

The administration crowd calls it a ten-strike in diplomacy, not for what the message meant to you when you read it, but what it meant to Hitler and Benes, and the rest of the world diplomats able to read between the lines.

The interlinear text contained the inference that the U. S. would be opposed to whichever party declared conciliation for war.

Administration insiders claim it had a profound effect in Prague, where the hope of American sympathy for any course the Czechs would choose to follow, had been running high in official quarters.

Most terrifying feature of the European prospect, uppermost in many an official mind here, was the possibility offered by the airplane for swift, wholesale murder.

For example, the day of the Hitler speech, someone in the state department received the dispatch from London indicating pedestrians in the streets there were passing word to each other to get their gas masks ready.

The German and Italian air-fleets combined might be able to do everything that the gas-making campaigns in Britain and France have indicated was feared. They are far superior. While no military staff would order wholesale bombings of cities, there was just enough uncertainty about what men like Hitler and Mussolini would do, to make mass murder a picture easy to conceive.

Congressmen may, as well stop cheering about Rep. Eicher leaving the anti-monopoly committee when his congressional term expires in January. Mr. Corcoran is too good a fixer to permit anything like that.

Here is the play: Eicher will go off the committee as a congressman, be appointed to the SEC, then SEC's Jerome Frank will be appointed to A. D. C. judgeship, whereupon Eicher will be named back to the anti-monopoly committee in Frank's place as an alternate for Secharman Douglas.

This will not prevent downtown economists from losing control of the committee, however, if Eicher's vacated congressional seat on the committee is filled by a congressional leaver.

Personal Note—Eicher appears to be a coming man in the executive branch of the government for what he has sacrificed his congressional chair for Roosevelt in the Iowa primaries. He describes himself as "Agrarian Progressive."

is 60, is a Chicago University graduate, was 2 years registrar there, attorney for the C. B. & Q. railway before entering Congress in the first Roosevelt landslide.

Wage-hour Administrator Andrews is giving AFL a fair break with CIO which is more than some other government departments have done. CIO him first, gave him figures indicating they were in control of the entire industry, so he promised them all 9 places on the administration board. AFL came along proving they had a substantial proportion of the industry, whereupon Andrews revoked his promise, gave 2 places to AFL, which may or may not represent relative strength in the industry, but is something.

and individuals. Any day we receive benefits, favors and blessings impossible for us to return. The Bible is authority for the statement that "it is more blessed to give than to receive." The good citizen is anxious to divide what he has with his fellow man whom he showed love. The governor of a great state recently stated that the love of our fellow men is the fundamental rule of Christianity and the keystone of democracy.

Promoters of pension schemes are trying to destroy this fundamental rule, by subversive propaganda. They would have old people rob their own children that the pensioners may live in luxury. BILL ARP.

PREPS 'KICK OFF' FRIDAY

Their wings clipped a bit by a C.I.F. "de-emphasis" rule requiring at least three weeks of practice before opening their seasons, Orange county's high school footballers finally "kick off" this week.

Neighboring Tustin makes it bow under new Coach Russ Wilson Friday afternoon at Huntington Beach. From what I hear on Football Alley these may be the two top teams of the county. Santa Ana and Fullerton included. "Red" Guyer's Laguna Beach eleven, narrowly beaten for the Orange league championship last season, takes on San Jacinto at Laguna. Brea-Olinda, "Shorty" Smith's gang, opens against Citrus at Brea. The Elsinore Naval academy team plays at San Juan Capistrano, where Gil Strother is nursing along a typical "dark horse" eleven.

Only Orange league school idle this weekend is Garden Grove, where Coach Blanchard Beatty prefers to sit tight another week before meeting Newport Harbor. Sunset leaguers also have a busy schedule this week. Stew White's Orangemen battle Colton in Orange. Anaheim hits the road for its inaugural, meeting Covina. Newport Harbor invades Bonita. Long Beach Jordan waits until Saturday to tackle Coronado. Coronado. Excelsior, the '38 titlist, meets Citrus. Brea also gives Citrus as its first foe so there may be a conflict somewhere along the line.

In the Citrus Belt circuit, Santa Ana draws a tough customer in mighty Long Beach of the Coast League. Pomona, which looked like a world champion Monday in slaughtering South Pasadena, 38-0, goes to El Monte. San Bernardino travels to San Diego for a session with Hoover Jr. Riverside has scheduled a night game Thursday with Corona, at Riverside. Fullerton, Football league member, plays at Ontario.

There will be plenty of action on the junior college front, too. Santa Ana, of course, meets Los Angeles, which won the Western division championship last fall but "did not choose" to play either Santa Ana or San Bernardino, co-champs of the Eastern conference. Fullerton brings the Taft Drillers to Fullerton's stadium. Pomona gets a nice trip to Palo Alto to play Stanford's Frosh in a preliminary to the Stanford-Santa Clara "natural." Santa Ana had that spot on the Papoose schedule last year. Riverside takes on Compton, usually a strong club. Long Beach goes to San Bernardino. Ventura plays in Pasadena's Rose Bowl.

NOBODY LOVES AN UMPIRE?

Nobody loves an umpire, but—Preparing to submit his final financial report, Secretary-Treasurer Lee McClelland of the National Night ball league discloses that the big-time softball circuit paid out more than a thousand dollars for umpires alone last summer. Not bad for a wheel that was supposed to be gasping for breath. . . . McClelland also reports that Orange and Irvine, which finished fifth and sixth in the standings so didn't get into the Shaughnessy series, got $137 each out of the playoffs. Thus, they fared approximately as well as Santa Ana, which got into the post-season series but was eliminated in short order by San Bernardino.

DONS REDUCE RATES AGAIN

Santa Ana Jaycee announces that "bargain rates" again prevail Friday night when the Dons play Los Angeles at the Municipal Bowl.

General admission will be 40 instead of 50 cents. Students, including those of high school age, if they submit a student body card, will be admitted for 25 cents. For last week's game with Santa Monica, the admission was 15 and 25 cents yet the Dons drew $780. Jaycee alumni will have a special section of their own at all home games this year, according to Otto Grigg. The "old grads" must pay 25 cents for a membership card but this will be good for a reserved seat between the 30-yard lines, just like the Downtown Quarterbacks. The alumni section will be just north of the student section.

FRED PERRY CHOICE IN PRO NET MEET

CHICAGO—(UP)—Fred Perry of England who won three Wimbledon and three American amateur tennis championships, meets William Croker, Chicago, in a first round match of the national professional singles tournament tonight. It will be Perry's first appearance in tournament play since he turned professional and went in for barnstorming tours.

He is the favorite in a field of 26 professionals competing for the singles and doubles titles. He is teamed with Vincent Richards for the doubles competition, scheduled to start tomorrow.

He is in the same half of the singles draw with Lloyd Budge, Berkeley, Calif., New York, Wilmer Hines, West Virginia, George Lott, Jr., Chicago, and Johnny Faunt, California.

Tustin 'Shows Up' Saints

Bruins Head Northward to Meet Oregon

(By United Press)
LOS ANGELES—Three complete teams and two extra quarterbacks of the University of California at Los Angeles headed north today to open their conference play against Oregon Saturday. In the final workout here the regulars smothered the substitutes who were using Oregon plays. Without using a pass they smashed through five touchdowns, three by Ken Washington.

Los Angeles—Anti-Aerial work stressed as the University of Southern California prepared today for Oregon state. Recalling Alabama's two passing touchdowns, Coach Howard Jones drilled the Trojans on plugging the holes in their aerial defense.

BERKELEY—California's Rose Bowl champions packed their duffel today for a trip to Pullman where they will play their first conference football game Saturday against Washington State college. In the final scrimmage last night, Quarterback Bill Elmore and Tackle Jack Smith were out with minor injuries.

SANTA CLARA—Coach "Buck" Shaw today named his backfield for Saturday's game against Stanford. The lineup included McCarthy, Pellegrini, Barlow and Gunther, all lettermen. The Broncos held a secret practice yesterday.

SEATTLE—Trainer Earl Clark today reported that injuries of the game against Minnesota had mended and that the University of Washington would be at top strength for Saturday's game here against the University of Idaho. Coach Jimmy Phelan drilled his team behind locked gates yesterday.

PULLMAN, Wash.—The Washington State line drew the most attention from Coach Babe Hollingbery today as he prepped his team for the invasion of University of California Saturday. Blocking and tackling was the principal fare for the team as Hollingbery worked on weakness showed in losing to Oregon, 10-2, last week.

MOSCOW, Idaho—Light practice was on the schedule for the University of Idaho as the Vandals prepared to enroute for Seattle to play University of Washington Saturday. Coach Ted Bank named a squad of 33 players for the trip.

EUGENE, Ore.—Bob Smith, big University of Oregon halfback, moved to fullback today as Coach Tex Oliver revised the lineup for Saturday's game with U. C. L. A. Secret practice was held yesterday as Oregon ran against U. C. L. A. plays.

CORVALLIS, Ore.—Oregon State college's football squad slacked off in practice today and prepared to leave tonight for Los Angeles to meet University of Southern California in a conference football game Saturday. Defensive and passing plays were stressed in yesterday's scrimmage.

S. CAL. CONFERENCE ELEVEN IN ACTION

After a week of preliminary battles, four Southern California conference football teams swing into action this week against loop foes in quest of championship honors.

San Diego State entertains the Occidental gridders at the border city Saturday afternoon in a game which will undoubtedly dash championship hopes for the loser. The Tigers nosed out Santa Barbara State, 6-0, last Friday night by virtue of a 77-yard run by "Lefty" Goodhue, but will miss the shifty back this Saturday. Goodhue will be out for at least two weeks with a foot injury. The Aztecs demonstrated scoring punch last week by outscoring the strong U.S.S. New Mexico eleven, 29-20, and as defending champions of the Southern California conference must be rated favorites over the invading Tigers.

In the other conference tilt of the week, Redlands university must be given the nod over Pomona. Bolstered by several flashy junior college transfers, the Bulldogs are determined to make a strong bid for loop leadership this year. To date the Bulldogs, tutored by Cecil Cushman, have scored an impressive win over Pomona junior college, 24-0, in a practice encounter. The Pomona Sageshens also showed scoring ability by downing the U.S.S. Idaho pigskinners, 24-6, in an Caltech's Engineers travel north to tangle with the powerful Santa Jose State eleven Friday night, Sept. 30. Last year the Staters administered a 48-6 licking to the Pasadenans.

Due to the withdrawal from the conference of La Verne, the Whittier-La Verne fracas, scheduled Friday night will not be played. Other La Verne games affected by the withdrawal are: Oct. 6, Pomona college; Oct. 22, Occidental college; Nov. 4, Redlands university.

Ferebee Ends Golf Marathon

J. Smith Ferebee, shown above in action with his two caddies, began the last lap of his 600-hole transcontinental golf marathon today. Ferebee has played 456 holes and needs to play 72 in Philadelphia and 72 in New York this afternoon to win a reported $100,000 in wagers. He played 75 in Milwaukee and 72 in Chicago yesterday.

Byrd Says National League 'Too Smart'

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Baseball is a simple game, played for the most part by simple folk, and Joe McCarthy is the game's best manager because he respects these truths and handles his New York Yankees accordingly.

This is the opinion of Sammy Byrd, the Alabama cracker who saw six years of swiping with the Yankees before swapping his spikes for cleats and his bat for a brassie. Sammy's a golf pro now, but even in the midst of his fight for a chunk of the $135,000 prize money in the 108-hole Westchester Open it wasn't any trouble to get him talking baseball.

"You know, in all the time I've known, in all the time I've seen five cents worth of man-minding talk. On the Yankees all they want to know is—can you hit that ball? Can you throw it? And can you run? Those three things are all there is to baseball, and if you can do them the so-called inside stuff doesn't make any difference. National league managers try to be so smart—they all still are trying to be John McGraw in one way or another—that they ruin a lot of good ball players.

"I know what I'm talking about, because after I left the Yanks I had two years under Charley Dreesen at Cincinnati. That Dreesen was so smart he figured himself right back into the minor leagues. Your average baseball player isn't a mental giant, you know. You can't give him too many things to think about. If a player has a natural ability the best thing to do is to reduce his worries as much as possible, and just let him play the game the way he knows how."

Sammy took time out to stuff his golf clothes in a duffel bag, and then continued: "Strategy and tactics and deep stuff play minor parts with the Yankees. No one worries much trying to make a left fielder hit somewhere else, or stuff like that. The usual order is 'get up there, Butch, and take a cut at that ball.'"

"As a result the Yanks get more extra base hits and knock in more runs than any other team. Take the team this year. It isn't a powerhouse club, but it breezes to a pennant and will knock the National off in the series in about five games."

Sammy figures it will be two more years before he gets to the top as a professional golfer.

"I'm hitting the ball pretty well right now, but there are a thousand little refinements in this golf that a fellow can't get over night," he said. "I know a lot of people think I'm a flop as a golfer, but I'll show 'em. I decided to quit baseball when I found myself going down hill. I figured I might just as well get out of a sport that I was losing ground in, and get in one where I could move forward. I'm not breaking even now, but I'm salted away a little of that money I made in baseball, and before it's used up I'll be winning my share of those tournaments."

Fighter Misses Punch, Kayoes Himself

LONDON.—(UP)—Irish Jack Doyle knocked himself out in the second round of a scheduled 12 round fight with Eddie Phillips at Harringway arena last night.

Doyle missed a terrific right, lost his equilibrium and plunked through the ropes to the floor. Before he could get back in the ring, the referee counted him out and awarded Phillips a technical knockout. Doyle weighed 225; Phillips 191 1-2.

O'SHANNON TO FACE M'DANIELS MONDAY

What should be two of the best fights ever staged at the Orange County Athletic club have been booked for the double main event on next Monday night's card, according to Promoter "Bud" Levin.

In the top half of the double main event "Red" O'Shannon, fighting Los Angeles Mexican, meets Jim McDaniels of Los Angeles. In the second half of the double main event Wayne Penn, dynamic Seal Beach slugger, tangles with Frankie Garcia of Boyle Heights, Penn has won his last two local starts over the quick knock-out route. Fans who have seen Garcia in action, are giving the little Mexican more than an even chance of stopping Penn.

Other fights on the card are: Pete O'Neil, Wilmington vs. Sammy Fields, Boyle Heights, 150 pounds; Steve Stanrock, Los Angeles vs.

STEVENS HURT IN SCRIMMAGE OF DON SQUAD

Either Tustin has another powerful football team this season or else the Saints of Santa Ana are weak and in a peck of trouble. Whatever the reason, the Santa Anans were decisively outplayed by Tustin during a lengthy scrimmage on Clayton field yesterday.

The Saints are tuning up for a tussle with Long Beach Poly here Friday and Tustin is prepping for its first game of the season at Huntington Beach the same day.

Fielding an all-veteran lineup averaging about 165 pounds, Tustin continually outgained the Saint regulars and, except for one brief flash of attacking power, stymied Santa Ana's offense completely.

Bobbie Musick at fullback sparked the Saints' only drive that went some 70 yards. The junior fullback, still running high but churning his knees like Brothers Jim and Bill, handled the ball on all of the big gains on this march.

Otherwise, the showing was a bitter shock to those Santa Anans who had hoped for a Saint victory against Long Beach.

With Linker and Harold Lilly running and passing like high class backs behind the blocking of Halfbacks Scott and McCarter, Tustin cut loose with a flashy attack that bewildered Saint linemen. On defense, Tustin's line consistently outcharged Santa Ana's, with Vic Linker and Ev Winkler looking especially strong on the ends.

Assistant Coach Joe Koegler was in charge of the Saints in the absence of Coach Bill Foots and since Joe couldn't shake the Citrus Belt leaguers out of their lethargy although substituting freely.

The Saints have another scrimmage booked today but will take time easier tomorrow.

STEVENS, DON TACKLE, INJURES KNEE

Injuries continued to plague Santa Ana junior college's football forces today as the Dons prepared for their final hard workout before meeting the Los Angeles City College eleven in the Municipal Bowl Friday night. Four more Dons were sent to the showers in none too sound condition following last night's strenuous scrimmages.

Virgil Stevens, Coach Bill Cook's No. 1 tackle of the moment, was the first casualty. He wrenched his knee in a pile-up of players. Whether the injury will keep him out of the Los Angeles contest depends on the decision of the squad physician. Ted DeVelbiss also banged up his knee to bring further gloom to the Don camp. DeVelbiss will be able to play, however. The other two Dons to take the pine court were Maxie Moore and Bob Davies. Moore was knocked cold when he hit Davies with a head-on tackle. That it was a hard tackle was indicated when Davies was forced to quit for the day when a severe "charley-horse" developed from the blow.

With "Chuck" Stafford definitely out Coaches Bill Cook and Johnny Ward spent the early part of last night's workout trying to develop a suitable replacement for Stafford, who has been doing most of the punting. The Dons lined up in punt formation and the two coaches had DeVelbiss, Bill Twist, Dick Saunders and Rollo Beck all taking a whirl at punting. Saunders seemed to have the best luck.

Sam Henderson, who is still out with a pulled leg muscle and probably won't be able to go again until next week, got off some sensational kicks the few times he took the back spot during the punt formation drill. Several of Henderson's kicks soared 60 yards.

Bill McKinnis, one of the better Don guards who weighs well over the 200-pound mark, was forced to check out of football for the season to accept a job.

Basketball Men Meet At 'Y' Next Monday

Basketball managers will meet at the Y. M. C. A. Monday night at 7:30, it was announced today by Quentin Matzen, chairman of the "Y" basketball committee.

At this gathering plans will be completed for the opening of the league schedule October 17. Most of the teams already have started practice, and the players are showing up in form which promises a season of great sport and lively competition, according to Matzen.

Most of last year's clubs are lined up, and several new groups are asking for admission. "Every team planning to enter should be represented at Monday's meeting by its manager," said Matzen.

The PAYOFF

By JERRY BRONDFIELD
(NEA Service Sports Writer)

CHICAGO—They've done away with Bo McMullin's five-man backfield—so called—but just as people close to the scene expected, and Indiana's head man isn't mad at anybody.

Major John L. Griffith, Western Conference athletic commissioner, explains the demise of the Hoosier legerdemain.

"When Bo first announced several years ago that he was coming up with a five-man backfield, every coach in the conference was worried," says Griffith. "They didn't know just what to expect. But now there isn't a team in the league that spends an time worrying about that fifth man. They've got it scouted perfectly.

"It's only because the Big Ten decided it wanted a more strict interpretation and application of the rules that it clamped down on Bo."

McMullin's five-man wrinkle merely called for a guard to take part in the backfield shift, which sometimes made him eligible as a ball carrier.

PLAYER MUST PERFORM AT DESIGNATED POST

At the last Big Ten meeting it was agreed that a player ordinarily occupying the position of center, guard, or tackle on offense (unless permanently shifted into the backfield), could not be less than five yards behind the scrimmage line on offense at the time the ball was snapped, even though the coach had designated any man who normally occupied those positions, as an end or back.

The mere designation of a player in his position, according to the Big Ten's interpretation, does not determine his position. He must actually perform at the post designated.

Sammy Snead Hailed As 'Another Jones'

BY HARRY FERGUSON
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK—They said the law of averages was dead against the rise of another super golfer during the lifetime of the great Bobby Jones, but West Virginia gives you Sammy Snead.

He stands astride the golf world today with a $5000 check in his pocket—won at the 108-hole Westchester Open tournament—and what does it matter if he is a glum, silent guy so long as money talks?

Don't breathe a word of this within 200 miles of Atlanta, but there are folks in these parts who are saying that Snead could have slaughtered Bobby Jones on any of his best days. They are even saying that here, in this dark-haired, black-eyed boy out of the hills, we have the finest golf player who ever lined up a putt.

It was a sight to see out there at Penway Country club yesterday when Snead came up the nine knowing that he had to shoot par—perfect golf—to win first place money in the richest, toughest golf tournament of the year. Five thousand persons jammed him and shoved him. They kicked his caddy around until at times Sam had to wait five minutes to get the club he wanted. They

Budge Starts Drive For L. A. Net Title

BY JACK GUENTHER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES—Top seeded stars were ready to make their debut today in the Pacific Southwest tennis championships. For the first time since play started on a wide scale Thursday all contenders were on the scene.

Donald Budge was scheduled to play Robert Carrothers, San Diego junior, in his second round match. Gene Mako faces George Hughes of England; John Bromwich of Australia met Gordon Giles of Salt Lake and Harry Hopman of Australia played "Bunny" Lawrence.

Frankie Parker, fourth seeded, was outplayed completely yesterday, losing by scores of 6-3, 6-1 to Owen Anderson, holder of titles in Germany and Ireland.

Frankie Kukuljic, the Yugoslavian detective, won a 6-1, 6-1 victory from John Woodall of Los Angeles, and Sidney Wood, playing both brilliantly and erratically, defeated William Reedy of University of Southern California, 8-6, 6-3.

Charles Hare of England's Davis Cup squad defeated Leon Everett of Long Beach, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4; Leonard Schwartz, another Davis Cupper from Australia, won from Myron McNamara of Los Angeles, 6-4, 6-3; and Tamiro Abe of Japan won from John Sisson of Los Angeles, 4-6, 6-4, while his teammate on the Nippon cup squad, Yasumino Juramitsu, won by default.

Ronald Shaves of England, defeated John McDiarmid, Princeton professor, 6-3, 2-6, 6-7; Mel Calagher of Los Angeles defeated Mervyn Weston of Australia, 6-3, 6-4; Jack Kramer, interscholastic singles champ, defeated John Shostrom, middle western champion from Chicago, 6-3, 6-1; and Budge and Bromwich advanced by default.

GREENBERG IN NEW ASSAULT ON RUTH MARK

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK—Almost with the baseball world today lined up behind Hank Greenberg and the Chicago Cubs in their quest of laurels everyone believed beyond their reach.

With 53 homers Greenberg needs only three in five games to smash Babe Ruth's record of 60 made in 1927. Even the Bambino himself is pulling for Greenberg. "I wish him luck," was the Babe's comment when told of Greenberg's two homers yesterday.

With eight straight victories, the Cubs were within half-a-game of overhauling the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates in the sizzling National league race. Almost everywhere except in Pittsburgh baseball fans are rooting for "Gaby" Hartnett, the popular Irish pilot, to get his Cubs home in front and climax one of the greatest of September drives. On Sept. 1 the Cubs were in fourth place, seven games from the top.

Yanks Hope Cubs Win

Even the New York Yankees, American league champions, are pulling for the Cubs. This possibility may be because of the larger gate which would result with the Cubs in the series. Among baseball fans, however, there is sentiment for the underdog and for a team that can fight its way up a tough trail with only two pitchers, "Big Bill" Lee and Clay Bryant, who have shouldered the mound burden between them the past month.

"Dizzy" Dean's great performance which turned back the Pirates yesterday, 2-1, also contributed in rousing fandom to cheer for the Cubs. Dean held the Pirates to seven hits in 8 2/3 innings. Hartnett took him out with two out in the ninth because he was tired. Lee, who pitched and beat the Cardinals Monday, uncocked a wild pitch to let in the only run. Then he fanned Al Todd to end the game. The victory had its price as the Cubs lost Outfielder Augie Galan, who twisted his knee in sliding.

With five games left to play, the Cubs still must win one more than the Pirates in their remaining six, to grab the pennant. If both clubs win the same number of games Pittsburgh will finish in front. For instance if each team wins three games the standing would be:

W. L. Pct.
Pittsburgh ..... 88 62 .587
Chicago ..... 89 63 .586

By hitting two homers yesterday Greenberg moved one game ahead of Ruth's record breaking pace. Hank hit 57 and 58 in his 15th game. Ruth didn't get his 55th until game No. 149. But he also hit No. 59 in his 149th game. Thus the Detroit bomber will have to get another one today to stay even.

Greenberg has two more games at Detroit, where he has collected 39 of his clubs. Both are with the Browns. His final three games are against the Indians at Cleveland, where he has made only three homers in eight games.

ANNUAL OCEAN FROLIC PLANS COMPLETE

HOLD FROLIC NEXT SUNDAY

NEWPORT BEACH, Sept. 28.—Plans have been completed for the annual ocean frolic scheduled for Newport Beach next Sunday, with the program starting at 1 o'clock. Included will be two major kayak races.

Kayaks will be divided into two classes, racing craft and the popular "Esquimo" kayaks made by the Fullerton skippers. The races for kayaks will be over the same two-mile course from the beach at Newport and around the ocean end of the pier there to the pier and beach at Balboa. R. A. Marsden of Fullerton will direct the kayak events.

Other events scheduled are the ocean swim, entrants for which will be in three groups, men in one class, women in a second class, and a third class for swimmers over 50 years of age. There will also be a paddleboard race for Southern California life guards.

In general charge will be Frank Crocker of the Newport Beach life guard organization and he will be assisted by similar officials from several of the noted Southern California beach cities and communities. Gold trophies will be offered by the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce.

Beard Easy Explains "Why Stitching Gadget"

Highway Superintendent Arthur A. Beard had no embarrassment at all in explaining to the county supervisors yesterday how a hemstitching machine came to be included in a list of equipment missing from his department.

He showed no embarrassment because he had none left to show, he explained, having just returned from the national convention of the American League in Los Angeles. Somebody had sent a newspaper clipping about the hemstitching in Beard's department to the convention, where it was posted on the bulletin board of his outfit.

"I've been razed by experts," Beard admitted yesterday. "I left all my embarrassment at the convention."

Incidentally, he explained that the hemstitching machine never had been owned by the county, but had been leased with other relief-project equipment acquired with money borrowed from the relief bond issue of 1933. Since the loan was repaid with gas tax money intended for road work, the equipment, including the hemstitching machine, had been turned over to the road department to handle.

The hemstitcher was returned long ago to its owner.

Prado School Building Sold

Among a half-dozen jobs of buildings in the Prado basin sold on bids by the county supervisors late yesterday was the Prado school building, purchased by the Callahan Construction company, of Los Angeles, for $500.

This was the principal sale of the day. Only six of the 14 parcels of buildings found purchasers, no bids being received on eight other parcels, which included houses and outbuildings on lands acquired by the county for Prado reservoir.

Boxing To Be Staged For Club

Members of the Santa Ana Breakfast club will be entertained with two boxing exhibitions at the regular meeting of the organization at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow at the Main Cafeteria. Frank Lockhart, of the Business Men's Gym, is presenting the program.

Secretary Bob Andrews advised all members to come early as the boxing will be staged before the regular breakfast. Hale Barker will preside at the meeting.

In the entertainment program 12-year-old Ethel May Hazen of Santa Ana, played accordion music. William Beaman followed on the program with piano solos. Tap dance arrangements by Mary Lou Mann, accompanied by Beaman concluded the entertainment.

Past Commander Charles E. Dixon presided at the meeting in the absence of Commander Albert P. Dresser, who is ill at his home with an infected eye. Jean Tantlinger was in charge of entertainment.

The pot luck dinner committee was composed of Mrs. Rosie Bauer, Matilda Moeres, Agnes White, John P. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Martin V. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Chastain and Mr. and Mrs. Willie A. Settle.

Obstreperous Man Ignores Tear Gas, But Goes To Jail

Allegations that Homer F. "Jack" Iman 40, Parsons apartments, was a "tough guy" started a miniature "war" at his room at 1 a. m. today. And as a result of the "war," Iman is in county jail today charged with being a common drunkard and assault and battery, and police were re-loading a tear-gas gun.

When Pete Pappas, restaurant operator at 316 East Fourth street, reported Iman had attacked him last night, and Pappas wished to sue a complaint, Officers Ralph Pantuso and Clyde Flower went to Iman's room and advised him that the warrant was being prepared.

"Come back when you get it," Iman said abusively, according to the officers' allegations. Obtaining the warrant, they returned to Iman's room and found the door locked.

"We tried to reason with him but he refused to unlock the door, was very abusive and called us all the names in the language," the officers reported. "We then shot some tear gas over the transom and into the room but it didn't faze him." After waiting 20 or 30 minutes, the officers with Officers F. L. Grouard and J. B. Stephenson broke the door in and read Iman the warrant, they reported.

Iman started to battle with them, they alleged, and they were forced to handcuff him to get him to jail. Today in city court, Iman asked time in which to plead. Judge J. G. Mitchell allowed him until tomorrow at 10 a. m.

Police News

To give Albert Reyes, Santa Ana, opportunity to make good on his promise to pay $10 per month for support of his minor child, Judge Kenneth Morrison today in Santa Ana justice court, postponed hearing of the non-support charge against him until December 30 at 10 a. m.

On report of neighbors in the 300-block of South Broadway, Officers Chet Gross and Ernest Zimmerman sought operators of two speeding cars at 3:29 p. m. yesterday. The neighbors said the cars were racing around the block.

Three "bad boys," reported setting fire to weeds and grass near Main and Edinger late yesterday afternoon were taken into custody by Officers Charles Neer and Daniel M. Jones, then taken to their mothers, the boys, 9, 9 and 8 years old, respectively, were to be punished by their parents, the officers were promised.

On complaint of a local woman, a family from Imperial valley living in a trailer house near Cypress and First streets, was ordered by police to move yesterday. A local ordinance prohibits living or cooking in a trailer house located anywhere but on a regulation trailer camp lot.

"AMERICANISM" PARADE THEME

Choosing the theme of "Americanization" for the 1938 Armistice Day parade, plans for the annual event, to be held in Orange this year, were made last night at a meeting of several committees from the Orange American Legion post. The motto selected will be "Let's Be American."

George Bickford heads all arrangements for the celebration which will open at 8 p. m., November 10, with a Memorial service in the Orange Union high school stadium. Drum corps and glee clubs of posts and auxiliaries of the county will join in presenting the program.

The parade is scheduled for 11 a. m. November 11 and will be featured by what is expected to be one of the best displays of fine horses ever to be staged in Southern California. M. E. "Dick" Jones and Perry Groat are to be in charge of horse entries.

A carnival is to be in progress all the afternoon and evening at the Orange city park and will be sponsored by civic groups. A free vaudeville show with Orpheum acts presented at the park free of charge. Band concerts also are to be given. In the afternoon a football game will take place at the Orange Union high school stadium with Orange playing Huntington Beach. A dance will close the celebration and will be held in the Legion clubhouse.

Working with Bickford is Vernon Shippee acting as secretary of the celebration, C. C. Triplett will be chairman of the Memorial service; Bickford, R. C. Steele and Louis Froster of the parade; Harvey Meyers of the carnival; Bert Hodson of the dance; Dave Fairbairn of the football game and Edwin Westcott of concessions.

MERCHANTS RECEIVE WARNING ON SIGNS

What started with a single complaint from a local man who refused to identify himself yesterday ended with "sweeping" investigation by Officers Charles Neer and Daniel M. Jones yesterday.

The man complained that an advertising sign for a local business place had been left in the parking beside the curb in violation of a city ordinance. The single complaint led to 23 warnings issued by the officers and advising business men that their signs were in the parking in violation of the law. Many of those warned pointed to other similar violations near them and wondered why they couldn't have the same privileges.

"We're going right over there now and tell the owner there just what we've told you," the officers explained. And they did. Result, 23 warnings.

O'Flaherty Named County Planner

Dan O'Flaherty, of Laguna Beach, was appointed by the county supervisors late yesterday as a member of the county planning commission, to succeed Louis Briggs, of Balboa, who resigned.

Supervisor John Mitchell made the motion for appointment of O'Flaherty, Supervisor N. E. West, of the fifth district, being in the chair during the absence of Chairman Willard Smith.

BENJAMIN TRIAL OPENS

Elliott Benjamin, solicitor for a Los Angeles newspaper, went on trial before Superior Judge H. G. Ames and a jury today, charged with two morals offenses against a 13-year-old Santa Ana girl. The offenses were said to have been committed August 20, in Birch Park, Santa Ana. Deputy District Attorney Warren Schutz is conducting the prosecution, with Attorney Simon L. Rose, Los Angeles, appearing for the defense.

On report of neighbors in the 300-block of South Broadway, Officers Chet Gross and Ernest Zimmerman sought operators of two speeding cars at 3:29 p. m. yesterday. The neighbors said the cars were racing around the block.

Three "bad boys," reported setting fire to weeds and grass near Main and Edinger late yesterday afternoon were taken into custody by Officers Charles Neer and Daniel M. Jones, then taken to their mothers, the boys, 9, 9 and 8 years old, respectively, were to be punished by their parents, the officers were promised.

DIXIE DUGAN

WARRANTS OVERTAKE ANAHEIM WOMAN, FRIEND AFTER 2 YEARS

Marjorie Madsen, 32, Anaheim, and her sweetheart, William H. Powell, 38, Santa Ana, were nabbed on bad check charges last night after an investigation which began two years ago.

Deputy Sheriffs James Musick and Steve Duhart, with a warrant issued from Anaheim, arrested Miss Madsen at the home of her mother in Anaheim. Questioned her about Powell's whereabouts but were informed she knew nothing about him. However, she talked enough to give the officers a hint of Powell's whereabouts and they rushed to Costa Mesa to the home of his sister.

Runs Into Closet As Duhart went to the front door and Musick to the rear door, Musick saw Powell run through a room to hide in a closet, he reported. Entering the place with consent of Powell's relatives, the officers ordered the frightened Powell from the closet. Powell was arrested on a warrant issued by Justice Kenneth Morrison, Santa Ana.

The pair, according to allegations, issued many fictitious checks in Southern California during the past two years. Powell is wanted here and in Riverside while Huntington Beach and Riverside police have warrants for Miss Madsen's arrest. At her arraignment in Anaheim court this morning, Miss Madsen was ordered to appear October 4 at 2 p. m. for preliminary hearing. Powell will be arraigned here later.

Three persons were slightly injured yesterday in accidents occurring here. In one of the two accidents reported, cars driven by Hannah M. Mrs. Gillis suffered a severe bump on the left side of her head while Williams was cut on the back of his head. Officers W. H. Heard, George Boyd and Daniel M. Jones gave first aid.

At Main and Roe drive, cars driven by Edith Marie Gallagher, 36, Downey, making a left turn, and Whitford Hall, 35, 698 Orange avenue, going north on Main, collided, damaging the left front part of the Gallagher car.

Mary Miller, 47, Watts, suffered injury to her side.

SERIAL STORY HIT-RUN LOVE

Yesterday: Larry calls Pat's young brother, Bill, to lie about his damaged fender. Bill is willing to help Pat. He is to testify tomorrow.

CHAPTER XIII

THEY sat there in the little cubby-hole of an office—Pat and Bill—while the day drew to a close around them. The boy's words had shaken Pat more than she realized. He had come to court prepared to tell a lie—a white lie as he believed—to save the man she loved.

She pressed her hands against her throbbing temples and twisted around in her desk chair.

"You must promise not to do it, Bill. You can't do it. If Larry is innocent he can prove it without putting you on the stand to lie for him. If—if he is guilty—" her voice trembled, then grew steady again, "then he must pay the penalty. I'll tell him in the morning that you are not to lie for him, and if he insists on putting you on the stand that you will admit that you know nothing at all about the car—either before or after the accident."

The wide-eyed wonder in Bill's eyes gave her courage. The light in them was no longer embarrassed, but proud. She had not failed him. He and Joe could continue to look up at her.

Pat sent him off home then, pleading that extra work would keep her busy. Actually she stayed to continue her own fight. The trick that Larry had meant to play with Bill shook her. He meant to do everything in his power to get off clean. Larry would use any means.

And what if he succeeded? What if as the case continued tomorrow she saw he was winning, breaking down witnesses who thought he was the driver of the car? Had she the right to interfere? She knew he was guilty, that he had killed a woman, seriously injured a child. He had admitted the truth to her, but the admission had been to her as his fiancée. In court a wife could not be forced to testify against her husband. Larry would never have made the admission to her if he had not been sure of her love and loyalty. Yet his own love for her had not prevented him from attempting to use Bill, and would not stop him from putting her on the stand to swear to his lies.

TOASTMASTERS
INDUCT HEADS

Installation of officers for the ensuing six months' term at Century Toastmasters Club last night made Robert Speed president, Wilfred B. Taylor vice president, Dwight Hamilton sergeant-at-arms and deputy district governor of Toastmasters International, and returned Ernest S. Wooster as secretary-treasurer. Dr. C. J. Ruley of El Camino club was installing officer.

Instead of adhering to the traditional method of making it a solemn occasion, Dr. Ruley injected a good deal of humor into the alleged duties of the new officers. He informed Speed that the United States had been insulted by a foreign nation having a dictator and that it was Speed's duty as president of the club to avenge the insult. He charged other officers with international duties as well as club duties.

Cultural Values

President Speed, replying to the address of installation, pointed to the benefits conferred on members by the club. He expressed the opinion that the individual members gained much in culture, in pronunciation, in enunciation, in clarity of thought and use of English as well as in ability to present their ideas.

He urged that the club purchase a dictionary and appoint a dictionary critic and give this phase of the club's activity more prominence.

General Secretary of Toastmasters International, Ralph Smedley, guest of the club, urged that the club give more thought to criticism of subject matter, as it has a number of members of several years' speaking experience.

Discussion of Fleet

In line with its selection of present day topics, the club adopted as its subject for discussion next Tuesday "Should the American Fleet Replace the British Fleet at Hong Kong in the Event of European War?"

The program of the evening, Wooster as toastmaster, was a radio program, each speaker reading his talk. Those who took part were Wilfred Taylor, William Harding and Dr. Merrill W. Hollingsworth.

With evacuation of Americans in Europe a major problem should the present crisis develop into a major war, President Roosevelt and his cabinet met in emergency session on Washington. GABLE AND MYRNA
IN NEW W. C. SHOW

Thrills of war and aviation, hair-breadth escapes in the South American wilds and a love story of two thrilling-craving souls combine in an action packed piece of entertainment in "Too Hot to Handle," co-starring Clark Gable and Myrna Loy, opening today at the West Coast theater.

Action ranges from war-torn Shanghai and New York to the high seas and Dutch Guiana jungles. Miss Loy portrays a daring aviatrix and Gable a daredevil newsreel cameraman. The girl flies on a mercy mission, and Gable, in quest of a "scoop" manages to bring about a crackup. The story opens with the pair of girls on board a trans-Pacific liner as stewards, after having been fired as Honolulu cafe entertainers.

Revealing the work and perils of the Texas Rangers, one of the nation's oldest and most picturesque law-enforcement agencies, "The Renegade Ranger" brings George O'Brien to the screen in a story of romance and revenge. Tonight the Broadway shows for the last times, "Valley of the Giants."

Jimmie Fidler in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, September 28.—Idol Chatter: Hollywood glamour girls, with their stylish piled-high hair, remind me of perambulating birthday cakes—and I've always had a sweet-tooth. Bet it would be fun to take Edna May Oliver roller skating. Profiles: Edward Arnold and Los Angeles man Mayor Fletcher Bowron. Fred Kohler, "heaviest" of screen villains has spent one-fifth of his professional life in hospitals, recovering from injuries sustained in movie fights.

Never heard Al Jolson use double-talk, but he's a two-handed articulator. Martha Raye's wide-mouthed "What Ho!" would cheer the worst dyspeptic. Height of something or other: that current economy drive in a major studio—having spent $600,000 last year for dud stories, they are now firing laborers to balance the budget. Wonder why Julie Haydon, who always clicks on Broadway, can't score a screen hit?

Thirty-five percent of the 30,000 people employed in movie studios are women. Nominated for the screen's most stately beauty: Gail Patrick—as aristocratic as a champagne cocktail. No wonder Edward G. Robinson is so well-read—he's an insomniac and seldom sleeps more than three hours a night. Touching sights: an ex-star, who drank himself down the ladder five years ago, slipping furtively into a Boulevard pawn shop. I like Henry Fonda's observation that Hollywood has lots of level streets but very few level heads.

I've just seen—and heard—a rough cut of Deanna Durbin's new picture, "That Certain Age" and came away with a few impressions that will interest fans. While it is unfair to appraise any picture before cutting is complete, this one looks like a hit and, unquestionably Deanna's voice has developed

DRIVE OPENS TO END LABOR WARFARE

HEAVY VOTE TO BE URGED SOON

An educational campaign to acquaint citizens of Orange county with Initiative Proposition No. 1 which will appear on the state ballot November 8, was launched last night in Orange at a meeting of a local committee representing the California Committee for Peace in Industrial Relations.

Held in offices of the Orange Chamber of Commerce, the meeting was presided over by C. H. Robinson, chairman of the Orange group. Members of the new committee included S. B. Edwards, L. F. Finley, Louis Koth, George Franzen, Roy Buckles, H. L. Frostefer, Pohn Adams, H. E. Gardner and Mrs. E. H. Smith.

In outlining details of the initiative measure, Chairman Robinson emphasized that a favorable vote on Proposition No. 1 by the people of the state will mean the end of labor warfare in California and the establishment of industrial peace necessary for business prosperity, job security and protection of the consumer.

"The starting point in preparing this initiative measure," Robinson said, "was the factor of justice and fairness as the first requirement in establishing happy relations between employers and employees. This statute will be a foundation upon which California citizens can build a structure of employment relations in which workers and employers can sit down together in peace and good order."

"Too often labor disputes are looked upon as affecting only workers and employers. Parties to industrial controversies have ignored the general public, which suffers most. Under this new law, workers can organize and bargain collectively without interference. Workers can strike, but there will be no sit-downs or property seizures. Worker on strike can picket, but with reasonable regulations and peaceful methods. Workers on strike can boycott, but only their own employer."

"But nobody can interfere with free use of the highways and wharves by farmers or anyone else. Mass picketing and picketing by mercenary pickets is prohibited. Nobody can use coercion or intimidation to force citizens to join unions, or not join them, or other un-American practices. Nobody can use the excuse of 'hot cargo' for boycotting or picketing if a union official declares a commodity 'unfair.' Nobody can boycott those with whom they have no quarrel, which means the elimination of unfair secondary boycotts."

Committees similar to the one formed in Orange are being organized throughout Orange county.

ARTS AND CRAFTS PRIZES CAPTURED

Seven Orange county residents proved that the county is not interested solely in agricultural achievements when they walked off with prizes in the arts and crafts exhibits at the Los Angeles county fair, according to an announcement today by Leta Horlocker, director.

Winner of first place in the miscellaneous bound book division was Miss Jean Goodwin, of Santa Ana. For her entry in leather working for table use, Marion Just, of Fullerton, received top honors. Edythe MacDonald, of Fullerton, won a first prize in the utility metal work division.

Three first prizes were won by Fullerton residents in the jewelry division: Ralph Farmer, rings; Earlene Rickett, necklaces; and Dorothy Brewster, buckles.

Viola Renneker, of Fullerton won a first prize for her entry in the small piece glazed pottery exhibition, while Jean Goodwin, of Santa Ana, was first among the larger articles shown.

Today at the fair former residents of North and South Dakota, Montana, Kansas and Nebraska are being honored.

PLAN DISCUSSION ON CITRUS PROBLEMS AT INSTITUTE OCT. 7

A clearing house for current questions on citrus problems, dealing with marketing, distribution and general economic conditions, is the purpose of the Citrus Growers' institute sponsored by the Agricultural Extension service October 7 at the Anaheim High school auditorium.

Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg today invited growers to submit their questions for consideration and discussion at the institute. They may be sent to his office at 211 Court House Annex, Santa Ana. Time will permit only questions of an industry wide nature affecting growers generally.

Experts To Speak

The questions will be discussed by a large panel of growers, directors and business men who have had intimate contact with the citrus industry for many years. The members of the panel were selected from the major marketing organizations operating in Orange county.

Besides the panel discussion of current questions from the growers, several specialists in marketing, economics and transportation costs will be heard. A. A. Brock, state director of agriculture, Sacramento and Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg, representing the University of California, will preside over the institute sessions. Present indications point to a capacity house attendance.

Open To All Growers

The Agricultural Extension service announces that the institute is open to all growers, regardless of their affiliation. The program and discussions are designed to bring to the grower the latest factual information on the timely questions before him today.

Smart Affairs Introduced By Co-Hostesses

Garlands of flowers in which autumn's rich shades ranged from yellow to golds, bronzes and browns, lent special charm yesterday to the bridge luncheon with which Mrs. George S. Smith and Mrs. Harry T. Duckett initiated a party series with which they will add charm to the autumn and early winter social season.

The two hostesses are planning their entertaining in such a manner as to maintain a certain charming intimacy, such as is possible only in smaller groups. They had eight tables for luncheon and bridge play yesterday, and received at Hotel Laguna in Our Village. Mrs. Coralynn Thompson and Mrs. Hugh C. Wiley lent assistance in such details as checking arrivals and collecting bridge scores. Attractive prizes, wrapped and tied in the vivid autumnal hues, were awarded for first and second high contract scores made by Mrs. J. E. Paul and Mrs. W. E. Williams.

Mrs. Duckett and Mrs. Smith were continuing the present party series with a second luncheon today, also staged in the popular beach hotel where Mrs. Duckett spends so much of her time.

Hostess is Surprised With Gifts From I. T. U. Auxiliary

Although they accomplished a great deal on the woolen comfort which they are making I.T.U. auxiliary members yesterday accomplished much in the way of enjoyment as well, when they staged an all day meeting in the O.K. Maxwell home, 2021 South Main street.

They made the occasion a paper bag luncheon, and the noon hour was a merry climax to the morning of sewing. In the afternoon, needlework again had a pleasant interruption, for members had conspired in a plan to surprise their hostess. In an interval during which she was out of the room, a beautiful bassinet appeared as though by magic, and in it were packages tied with the pink and blue ribbons of babyhood. The bassinet was the auxiliary's gift to the young matron, while the gift packages were from individual members.

The next business meeting of the group was announced for Tuesday night, October 11, when Mrs. E. L. Taylor will come from her Huntington Beach home to receive in the J. W. Parkinson home, 326 East Edinger street.

Members present yesterday with Mrs. Maxwell were Mesdames E. W. Ellis, J. W. Jones, C. E. Fisher, Virgil C. Shidler, Charles Clayton, E. Y. Taylor, J. W. Parkinson and Dean Lawrence with her two little children, Tommy Dean and Lois Lawrence.

Geologist Leaves Soon To Resume Work In Africa

After a two months' stay in this community with members of his family, George Broome of Newport Road is completing plans to leave next Monday for San Domingo and eventually Africa to resume his geological work with Soriano interests.

His work in San Domingo is expected to occupy him for approximately one month, at the close of which period he will go to New York, sailing November 10 for France. At Marseilles he will board ship for Africa, disembarking at the port of Mombasa.

Traveling inland he will locate in the district surrounding Lake Victoria, where Soriano interests have various mines. It was in this vicinity that Broome was employed before coming home on vacation early in the summer.

Mrs. Broome and their three children, Del, Judy and Gary will remain in the Newport Road home. There is a possibility that Mrs. Broome will join her husband at a later date, since he expects to be in Africa for at least two years.

The Broomes and their children were dinner guests last night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bacon Jr., Mountain View Drive, Tustin.

Eastern Star

Preceding their regular chapter meeting in Masonic temple with a covered dish dinner in the temple dining room, Santa Ana O. E. S. members shared a pleasant social affair Monday evening, planned by Mrs. Elizabeth Jernigan and her committee.

Mrs. Sue Henry and Forrest White, worthy matron and patron, had their full staff of officers present to assist in the evening's session. Escort honors were paid Mrs. Jennie Shippe, just completing a year of fine service to the grand chapter and all chapters in this district, which she served as deputy worthy grand matron.

Grand chapter was announced for Oakland, and will convene on Tuesday, October 18. Mrs. Henry and her associate matron, Mrs. Pearl Lyman, will be official delegates, and many chapter members plan to attend.

Of the various guests introduced, Mrs. Minnie Shilts of Hudson, Ohio, gave a talk, as did Mrs. Shippe. Plans were made for the observance of Brothers' night on October 10, with Glenn Lyman, associate patron, as leader.

Following the session, members repaired to the lounge for bridge play under chairmanship of Mrs. Ellen Smith and Mrs. Janice Turner. First and consolation prizes in contract were awarded Mrs. Jernigan.

Refreshments were served by Daisy Scott, Elizabeth Warren, Ethel Manderscheid and W. C. Drake. Dancing was enjoyed following the meeting, which was attended by more than 100 members and guests.

Worship Service Precedes Opening Y. W. C. A. Event

"Right Conquers," a Czechoslovakian creed which might well be the motto of all nations, was the keynote of a talk given by Mrs. A. A. Knipe last night during the program which followed Santa Ana Y.W.C.A. annual worship and membership dinner in First Presbyterian church.

Underlying the entire event seemed to be the Y.W.C.A. purpose. To build a fellowship of women and girls devoted to the task of realizing in our common life those ideals of personal and social living to which we are committed by our faith as Christians. In the endeavor we seek to understand Jesus, to share his love for all people, and to grow in the knowledge and love of God.

This was expressed in union during the 6 o'clock worship service; and all details of the after-dinner program. Of special interest was announcement that Miss Mabel McFadden, past president of the Y. W. C. A. board, and a national committee member, will attend a world conference to be held early in October at Spokane, Wash. Originally planned for 1938, in the Orient, the affair was postponed because of the critical situation at that time.

After-Dinner Program

Talks by Mrs. A. A. Knipe and by Miss Anita Shephardson climaxed the dinner program. Mrs. Knipe told of her visit there in August. She was convinced, as were the well informed and alert Czechs with whom she talked, that Nazi propaganda is causing the present difficulty in Sudetenland. It was pointed out that the Sudetens were happy until Hitler went into Austria. Should Hitler be permitted to take over the Sudeten government, the Czechs feel that they would be as oppressed as the other non-Germans in Hitler's realm.

The general feeling that there are so few right-thinking people in the world, but that "right conquers," the speaker said.

Miss Shephardson's delightfully humorous talk was informative as well, picturing to the group some of Japan's prominent citizens. Miss Shephardson, a resident of Fullerton, made a friendship tour of the Orient this summer. She pointed out that in America, Japan, or in any other nation, "you become a part of your community to the degree in which you contribute."

Camp Reports

Mrs. W. D. Guthrie, who is beginning her second year as president of Y. W. C. A., opened the dinner meeting. ## Widely-feted Visitors Will Leave Soon For Hawaii

Since their arrival from the east a few days ago to visit with relatives and friends in this community, Dr. and Mrs. Russell Jensen have been fated at various informal affairs. They are making their headquarters with Mrs. Jensen's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. W. S. McDougal in Fullerton.

Last night brought a dinner party at which Mr. and Mrs. William Gray were hosts in their home in Tustin. Mrs. Gray is the former Miss Louise Vance, and Mrs. Jensen, the former Miss Alice McDougal. Both attended Tustin schools.

The Jensens made a weekend stay in Laguna Beach with Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Archibald. Mrs. Archibald will be remembered as Miss Louise Artz of Tustin.

Mrs. Jensen's birthday, which is today, was to have been celebrated with a dinner in the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Kelly, 710 Eastwood street. However, Mrs. Kelly and her daughter Janice have been quarantined for scarlet fever, and party plans necessarily were cancelled.

Dr. and Mrs. Jensen will sail Friday evening at 5 o'clock on the Lurline for the Hawaiian Islands. Dr. Jensen, on leave of absence from his duties at Mayo Brothers' clinic in Rochester, Minn., will be resident physician for Hawaiian Agricultural company.

Daughters of Veterans

This week's meeting of Sarah A. Rounds tent D. U. V. in Modern Woodman hall, was held under direction of the first vice president, Mrs. Fannie Nau, in the absence of President Ella Smith because of illness. Mrs. Luella Hill, secretary, also was absent, so her post was filled by Miss Minnie Cowan.

The rites of initiation were administered to Mrs. Mildred Sullivan with appropriate exercises, and the new tent members gave an appreciative talk. Reports followed, showing that several bouquets had been sent to sick members, the group including with President Ella Smith, Mrs. Esther Gardner, who was reported as being in serious condition.

Mrs. Clara McCord, patriotic instructor, was present after a several weeks' confinement to her home with a broken ankle, and after cordial greetings from the tent, expressed her appreciation of the kindly attention she received during her long period of recuperation.

Plans were made for the monthly covered dish dinner with Sons of Union Veterans, to be held Friday night, October 28. Mrs. Beren Baker and Mrs. Edith Troxell were named as the committee on arrangements.

Visiting Daughters introduced were Mrs. Iva E. Jackson of Mary J. Perlington tent in Emporia, Kans., and Mrs. Eunice Beers of Martha Bamford tent in Oregon.

Panhellenic Members Begin Activities For New Year

Last night's meeting of Panhellenic society in the home of Mrs. Loyal King, 2346 North Park Boulevard, launched the organization's activities for a year which will be highlighted by the annual student-loan fund benefit dance in December.

However, since this was the first meeting of the autumn, it was largely social in nature. Dance plans will come up for general discussion of members later in the season, it was said.

Hostesses with Mrs. King were the new president, Mrs. R. C. Harris and Mesdames Elsie Daly, H. G. Wilson, Gregg Watson, Victor Hupp, Henry Williams and Robert B. Wheeler. They observed a Mexican motif in decorations, brightening the home with quantities of zinnias and other flowers.

Cactus plants in pottery containing centers tables at which desert was served early in the evening. Bright-colored cloths and other appointments were in keeping with the prevailing theme. Also of Mexican design were table prizes rewarding Miss Ruth Frothingham, Miss Edna Wallingford and Mrs. Robert Low for their high scores in bridge.

During a short business meeting, Mrs. Harris introduced her staff. This includes Mrs. Robert Wheeler, vice president; Mrs. H. G. Wilson, secretary; Mrs. Victor Hupp, treasurer; Mrs. Elsie Daly, courtesy chairman; Mrs. Henry Williams, publicity.

Mrs. Jack Hill, junior past president, was presented with the organization's traditional gift of a compact.

Delta Chi Sigmas Plan Evening of Bridge For Rushees

Pleasant in every particular was the rush party with which Delta Chi Sigma sorority members complimented a group of friends Monday night at Danagers.

Miss Dorothy Hanna, vice president of the organization, was chairman of the committee on arrangements, and plans included an evening of bridge for which tallies in orange and gold were distributed. Prizes were a silver bracelet and a cosmetic set, and, of course, to two of the honor guests.

After bridge play in one of the private rooms, the group returned to the main dining room where a refreshment table was gleaming with asters ranging from pale ivory to deep golden hues. Yellow and black streamers were looped along the cloth between tall yellow tapers. Even the refreshment course featuring fresh peach chiffon pie, accented the sunny color theme.

Present from the hostess sorority were the Misses Dorothy Hanna, Alice Martin, Frances Roberts, Henrietta Jinnett, Lorene Shippe, Henrietta Rupp, Carol Smith, Nadene Johnson, Vivienne White, Imogene McCauley, Mesdames George Carter, Howard Frazee, Richard Bradley, Lloyd Mander, and Miss Margaret Westover and Eileen McCollum, Orange.

There was rejoicing among members of two prominent Santa Ana families today, when a seven pound son was born in the early hours of the morning at St. Joseph hospital, to Mrs. Frank Curran Jr., 121 East Washington avenue.

Mrs. Curran was the former Nan Mead, a past president of Junior Ebell society, and the daughter of the Frank F. Meads, 2119 North Main street. Mr. and Mrs. Mead were happy over their fourth grandchild, as were Mr. Curran's parents, the Frank Currans of 2003 Victoria Drive. The new baby's small cousins include Frank Mead III, Patsy and Calvin Mead, children of the Frank Meads Jr. of Orange, and Howard Jr. Bernadine and Mickey Curran, children of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Curran, 1907 Heliotrope Drive.

Tour of Holy Land Completed By Local Resident

Mrs. Margaret Jewett, who probably has taken a greater number of trips within a few years' time than any other Santa Ana resident, has returned from a fascinating journey into the Holy Land.

She traveled to and from New York City by streamline train, making the ocean voyage on the S. S. Excelsior. En route to Jerusalem, the boat stopped at Naples and Genoa. One of the most beautiful drives which Mrs. Jewett ever has taken was in Genoa, she reported, declaring it to surpass even the famous Amalfi drive of Naples.

The Santa Ana made her trip to the top of Mt. Vesuvius at just the right time, for the volcano erupted the very next day. Continuing to Alexandria, Egypt, her party left the boat and entered the pyramids and camel rides proved especially enjoyable.

Crossing the Suez canal to Jerusalem, Mrs. Jewett and members of the party rode for two days behind machine guns en route to Baalek by way of Palestine and Damascus. The ancient ruins in Baalek, the Sea of Galilee, the River Jordan, the Garden of Gethsemane and other places so eloquent of Biblical times were visited by Mrs. Jewett.

The traveler left New York August 2, and returned home just a few days ago. She is located at Hotel Rossmore.

Native Daughters

Plans for several important events held the attention of Native Daughters of Santa Ana parlor at their meeting Monday night in K. C. hall. Discussion of the coming engagements followed the naming of the year's committees by the parlor president, Mrs. Genevieve Hickey.

Of chief importance in the autumn calendar is the first Southland visit of Grand President Edna Briggs. She is to be entertained here on October 31, and arrangements are being made for a gala dinner in her honor at Ebell clubhouse. The formal session of the parlor also will be held in the clubhouse. Miss Briggs has honored Santa Ana parlor by naming three of its members to posts on state committees. They are Hazel Flaherty, junior auxiliary; Genevieve Hickey, Orange county; and Gladys Edwards, extension of order for San Bernardino county.

Tomorrow will bring the meeting of the Thimble club, with all-day sewing to begin at 10 a. m. with covered dish luncheon at noon.

Mixing Bowl

BY ANN MEREDITH

This all-year pickle recipe is one you should clip and save for winter use. The recipe uses canned dill pickles and should be made in 2-quart quantities.

Spiced Sweet Dill Pickles
Use from 12 to 20 dill pickles, depending on size. Slice dills quite thin and drop into the boiling syrup for 1 minute.

Boil together for 10 minutes: 1 1/2 cups white sugar and 1 1/2 cups white vinegar with 2 teaspoons mixed pickling spices, tied in small bag. Bag removed after pickles are ready for jars.

Try these crisp flavory pickles with crackers, cheese, tart jam and coffee for a midnight snack.

Over-weights may have their sweet pickles, too. Use the above recipe, substituting saccharin for sugar, "taste testing" the pickle until the desired state of sweetness has been reached. Continue the reducing program with our efficient Safe and Sane diet. Write for a copy, enclosing, please, a return addressed stamped envelope.

Your Neighbor's Favorite Recipes
Bread and Butter Olive Oil Pickles

1 gallon sliced cucumbers
4 large onions, sliced
1/2 cup salt sprinkled over vegetables and left overnight.
Boil together for 10 minutes:
1 quart white vinegar
3 cups white sugar
1 teaspoon each, mustard (dry) mustard seed, celery seed and 1/2 teaspoon turmeric.
Olive oil: 2 tablespoons to each pint jar.

While the pickling syrup is boiling turn the cucumbers and onions into a colander to drain. Chop 3 or 4 sweet red peppers and add to the vegetables. Drop vegetables into boiling pickle syrup, bring to a rolling boil, hold there for 1 minute, then pour into clean hot jars, adding olive oil to filled jars. Seal and cool, bottom side up, to distribute oil.

This simple sweet pickle made the reputation of a fine beach tea room.

Simple Sweet Pickles
Wash, and slice thin small unpeeled cucumbers, in any desired quantity. Soak in weak brine overnight. Next morning, drain, and drop into weak boiling vinegar for 1 minute. Drain again, and transfer hot pickles to clean hot jars, filling jars with a syrup made in these proportions:

1 1/2 cups sugar to each cup strong white vinegar, brought to a rolling boil.
Before sealing add to each quart jar of pickles 1 tablespoon, each, white mustard seed and celery seed. Seal at once and cool, bottom side up.

A MATTER OF VOCABULARY

The vocabulary of professional people—I am concerned mainly about the words educational people use—has always been a grief to me. Education, to be of any real worth to society, must penetrate through the specialized groups to the great mass of people. One would think that those who so earnestly desire to teach the common people would use words that they could understand. They do nothing of the sort.

I still remember the educator who was hearing a group of post-graduates recite on Methods of Education. He called on a student, a man of ability, to outline a method of teaching primary children to read. The student gave a clear, simply-worded statement, complete and practical.

"Very good, Mr. Young. Now in the language of the psychologist and pedagogue, that would be —?" And the student had to rise and restate the method of teaching primary reading in words of three or more syllables.

I could not see the sense of that, then, nor since. If a simple word will convey the meaning, and be better understood than the long one, why isn't it better? I believe it is. It is useless to try to interest people in any subject if its vocabulary is so tortured, so obscure in their years as to deafen them to any sound of sense in it. Adult education seems to me highly important. Education does not, cannot, stop at any level of maturity without stunting the individual and consequently reducing the power of society. But adult education—and in my opinion this applies to any adult group however educated—must be presented in clear, simple, direct language.

Consider these words used in talking to parents of public school children: "Ambivalence of attitudes and variations in motivation; rapprochement; coercing agent; schematizations; problems emanate; rapport; idiosyncratic." Consider such language in teaching weary teachers who attend lectures in hope of gaining help for their difficulties, inspiration for their work. Consider it in relation to the education of fathers and mothers in child-training, school cooperation, personal experiences. They will not read it; they will not listen to it. It kills the thing it hopes to create—public interest and co-operation in the education of the public.

Most fathers and mothers and teachers are interested in education. They have to be. They sit gladly at the feet of any teacher who has something to say to them, puts it in words they can understand, but they leave the lecture when given in professional terms with the feeling that this is a mysterious matter, this education of children and parents, and might better be left to the technical experts. A very poor place to leave public education.

When the greatest Teacher who ever lived, taught, the people heard Him gladly. He told them stories in the simplest words, in terms of their own experience. He used words with big meaning, the little words that children know and understand, that older folk love and welcome because they have stood the test of time, and are loaded with meaning. We teachers of lesser degree might well follow His example.

Mr. Patri has prepared a leaflet entitled, "A Parent's Prayer," which is an inspiring example for parents to follow in bringing up children. Send for it, addressing your request to Mr. Angelo Patri, Child Psychology Department of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

EL MODENA, Sept. 28.—Opening with a tea, the first fall meeting of the El Modena P.T.A. will be held October 11, according to plans announced at a recent executive board meeting. A number of new officers are to be elected at the session when the report of the nominating committee, Mrs. Ritchey Barnett, Mrs. Clarence Wamsley and Mrs. Charles Kennedy is given.

GARDEN SECTION OF CLUB HOLDS FIRST FALL MEETING

ORANGE, Sept. 28.—Two groups of garden enthusiasts met yesterday at Orange city park, members of the Garden section of the Orange Woman's club having as guests members of the Garden section of Newport Ebell. The session marked the initial session of the hostess group with Mrs. Venon Shippee presiding for the first time.

Mrs. George H. Peterson suggested that the Garden section sponsor a project to make Orange known as the Bauhinia city. The Bauhinia tree in the plaza, she pointed out, is the parent tree of the many Bauhinia trees in the city park, which were grown from seeds by Michael Estock, formerly in charge of the city plaza and plantings.

Co-operation Pledged
Mrs. Peterson stated that she had contacted a number of city officials who seemed willing to co-operate in the project. She also suggested the replacement of trees that are taken out with Bauhinia trees.

Mrs. Shippee distributed yearbooks made under the supervision of J. W. Cummings, of the business administration department of the Orange Union High school and the instructor and Mrs. Shippee were given a rising vote of thanks. It was announced that the section now has 85 members. New members present who were introduced were Mrs. Fred Hart, Mrs. Ben J. Brubaker, Stanley Huntington, Mrs. Louis Koh, Mrs. Stanley Huntington, Mrs. E. R. Forbes, of Orange, and Mrs. W. O. Conklin, of Santa Ana.

A covered dish luncheon was served at tables on the picnic grounds and a number of members visited the rose garden to which they contributed plants.

Greetings Extended
Greetings from the Newport Garden group were extended by the president, Mrs. Winifred M. Young, and by the president of Newport Ebell club, Mrs. R. P. Tillotson. Other members of the Newport club present were Mrs. C. M. Deakins, Mrs. Susan Rutherford, Mrs. Lew Wallace, Mrs. A. H. Wilson, Mrs. W. W. Crozier and Mrs. Frances Damoth.

The resignation of Mrs. V. D. Johnson was accepted with regrets. Announcement was made by Mrs. A. H. Halleck of the meeting of the Inter-County Garden clubs in Orange October 31, when garden groups of seven Southern California counties will convene at the Woman's clubhouse.

Mrs. Alden Reports
Mrs. Fred Alden, Orange County Garden club chairman, gave a report of the fall flower show, stating that for the first time a profit had been made by the group. She expressed appreciation of all the help given by county cities and organizations.

OUTLINE PLANS FOR RALLY DAY

ORANGE, Sept. 28.—Rally day plans were completed at a meeting of Sunday school teachers and officers Monday night at the Presbyterian church dining room, where dinner was served by the September group of the Woman's fellowship, headed by Mrs. W. C. Man. Mrs. W. A. Settle was chairman of the dinner committee.

A business meeting conducted by C. E. Lush, superintendent, followed the meal. It was decided that the Sunday school session will be held in the auditorium of the church, with every department from beginners to adults represented. Dr. Robert B. McAulay, pastor of the church, will deliver a sermon on "Ships." The attendance goal for Sunday school is 500.

Following the business meeting Dr. McAulay spoke to the church associates on "Lessons from Palestine." He told of the many factors in everyday life in Palestine that have been held over from the time of Christ. Many tombs, he said, are like the one described in the Bible at the time of the Resurrection.

Thirty Sunday school teachers and officers were present and reports were given by a representative of each department on attendance.

Towering high over her cradle in the great Clydebank, Scotland, shipyards, the Queen Elizabeth, newest addition to the Cunard-White Star trans-Atlantic fleet, is almost ready for launching. Her namesake, Queen Elizabeth of England, will put her in commission on September 27th. The $5,000-ton liner is expected to be faster than the Queen Mary or Normandie.

The President, his lady, the doctor, and hundreds of townspeople waited anxiously in Rochester, Minn., as Jimmy Roosevelt came through the critical hours following an operation at Mayo Brothers Clinic for removal of a gastric ulcer. Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt clearly show the strain of the ordeal in their pictures. Shown with them is Dr. Howard K. Gray, who operated on their eldest son. Lower photo shows crowds outside the hospital.

As Stock Mart Boiled—Down

With ominous bulletins from the Sudeten area in Czechoslovakia keeping the whole world in an uproar, prices on the New York stock market saw-sawed violently. Above is a busy scene in a Wall Street brokerage office as the market took a plunge on the news that the Sudeten Germans had issued an ultimatum to the Czech government. Note the ticker-tape piled on the desk as brokerage officials try to keep up with the fluctuating market.

Sudetens Ready To Invade Their Homeland

Forty thousand Sudeten Germans, like those pictured here parading with arms upraised in Nazi salute, are armed and ready to invade Czechoslovakia, Konrad Henlein, leader of Czechoslovakia's Sudetens, has announced. Outfitted by the German high command, the Sudetens are reported poised at the border ready to march back into the homeland they fled when the Czech government proclaimed martial law in the Sudeten area. This picture was taken in Karlsbad just before the Czechs banned Sudeten party activity as a result of violence throughout the German-populated areas.

French Public Hungry For Latest News

France's position in the rapidly-changing European situation is a source of worry to thoughtful Frenchmen. Relief over the avoidance of war has changed to fear that France has suffered a diplomatic rout. Thus newspapers, carrying the latest news, were eagerly brought by crowds, such as the Parisians pictured above, the moment they came off the press.

British Blast Arab Homes as Holy Land Terror Mounts

Black smoke billowed high over the Arab quarter of Jenin, Palestine, where, as shown above, English troops dynamited over 100 Arab houses. With terrorism spawned by Arab-Jewish animosity continuing to produce many casualties, the drastic measure was partly in retaliation for the murder of Great Britain's Assistant Commissioner Moffatt of Jenin, and partly to provide patrol lanes between the tightly packed buildings.

Local Man On "Merit" Trip

B. F. McCausland, of George Dunton, local Ford dealership, was the guest of the Ford Motor company last week on a vacation trip to Denver, Colorado Springs, Pike's Peak and other points of interest in Colorado. McCausland was accompanied by nine other service department and parts department managers from Ford dealerships throughout Southern California. These all-expense-paid trips were rewards from the "Merit Club," an organization among Ford dealers for the betterment of service to Ford owners. On the return trip, the group visited San Francisco and viewed the site of the World's Fair. Pictured above as they left Los Angeles are: Front row (left to right), Les Klepper, Fontana; Earl Brassington, Los Angeles; J. S. ## GILMORE PLANS AD CAMPAIGN

Dramatic presentation of an extensive fall newspaper campaign featured the sales meeting attended by executives and personnel of the Gilmore Oil company, Southern California Division held last week, according to W. W. Craney, branch manager for Gilmore in Santa Ana. A stirring talk touching on the history of the oil industry, marked the program when the audience listened to a personal message from Earl B. Gilmore, president, whose voice was carried by a special radio network to similar sales meetings in key cities on the Pacific coast. Gilmore, who spoke from the historic Gilmore Rancho in Los Angeles, was introduced by Clarence S. Beezemer, vice president, over the same network from the meeting in San Francisco.

Details of the fall campaign as revealed by Craney center around the greatest mass demonstration of a single product ever held. Based on the actual testimony of thousands of Gilmore customers on the Pacific Coast, the individual ads give a factual history of the mileage experience of the everyday motorist.

Drivers discussing mileage records of the famous Gilmore-Yosemite Economy Run, urged Gilmore dealers to stage a demonstration for the ordinary motorist, and the resulting thirty day mileage tests involving a thousand drivers who totaled more than a million miles tell an amazing economy story, according to Craney.

"In such a wide-spread product test covering every type of automobile driving condition encountered in the west," Craney pointed out, "it was found that practically all makes of cars were represented with year models dating back as far as 1921. Such a spectacular mileage test differed from formally conducted trials inasmuch as these everyday drivers made no special attempt to obtain better mileage; did not tune up their cars for the thirty day event; and were in no way rewarded for the carefully kept records or their voluntary testimonials regarding the performance of Red Lion gasoline and Lion Head motor oil in their automobiles."

Youths Conduct Bicycle Court

A bicyclist traffic court has been established in La Porte, Indiana. The prosecutor is 14 years old and the judge 17, says the report received by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

The mayor of the city initiated the idea to halt the mounting toll of death and injuries to "bike" riders.

"We are going to experiment with a juvenile traffic court and see if we can make the boys and girls more respectful of traffic regulation," he said. "The bicycle riders of today are the motorists of tomorrow, so we hope to have long range results."

CRATER LAKE CLOSED

All accommodations at Crater Lake closed September 20, however, all roads remain open and will be kept open as long as weather permits, states the Touring Department of the National Automobile Club. Even after snow has blocked some of the entrances, the Medford and Klamath Falls entrances will be maintained open all winter, so those wishing to visit the Lake during Winter may do so. Although there are no accommodations available in the Park, many places outside the boundary are open and are recommended.

Dancing, drinking, embracing and kissing are banned on the Japanese screen.

GOODYEAR HAS NEW RAYON TRUCK TIRE

AKRON, Ohio.—Distinctive in appearance and improved in construction, a new YKI truck tire, built of Rayon fabric like its predecessors, but including a special, new, ribbed-tread design selected following three years' experiment and test, is announced by The Goodyear Tire and Rubber company.

A year ago Goodyear announced its first YKI Rayon-tire constructed tire with a body built from a special type rayon that completely solved the problem of internal tire heat. And, though this tire had rolled up astonishingly high mileages in most exacting service, Goodyear engineers continued their development of it; made shoulder non-skid 20 to 30 per cent deeper than previously, thus providing cooler operation and offering greater resistance to fatigue, with the addition of the new ribbed-tread design for still longer tread mileage.

The tire's sidewalls have new ribs to further resist scuffing, while the tread itself is flatter, providing more rubber contact with the road. Then there are notched, circumferential ribs in the tread center to aid in slow, even wear and provide traction. Interesting too, is the fact that the tread is designed for all wheel positions on tractor or trailer in general haulage service.

PROFESSIONAL MEN ARE SHREWD BUYERS

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 28.—"The tendency of professional men who use motor cars in their daily work is to look carefully into the matter of operating expense before they buy their automobile," W. S. Cowling, vice president of Willys-Overland Motors, incorporated, said today.

"This is to be expected since the cost of driving is figured as part of the general overhead in operating their business. We have had many reports from professional men covering continuous use of their Willys cars in which a cost per mile for driving of less than one cent has been clearly established."

"This is a definite saving over any other form of travel in the city where stop and go signals, congested streets, and other traffic conditions which delay progress, must be considered. "We have also had comments regarding the ease with which the Willys is handled in traffic and the facility with which it can be parked in areas where parking places are difficult to find and usually hard to get into." Willys dealers report an expanding use of the car among salesmen, doctors, real estate men and other men who use their cars almost continuously every working day.

YOSEMITE ROADS OPEN

All roads in Yosemite National Park are still open and will remain so until closed by winter storms, states the Touring Department of the National Automobile Club. Tioga is now all surfaced except 14 miles east from Aspen Valley Ranger Station toward White Wolf; however, portions of the route are still narrow, winding and steep.

SURVEY SHOWS WHERE TOURIST DOLLAR GOES

The far-reaching effect of motor tourist expenditures on business activity in the United States is impressively shown by a recent survey report received by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Out of each dollar spent by motor tourists it was found that about 20 cents goes toward transportation expense. The recipients of this segment of the tourist dollar include service stations, tire stores, accessory shops, battery and repair shops, garages, etc. Another 20 cents, it is estimated, is spent on accommodations, i. e., for rooms and hotels or tourist camps. Retail purchases incidental to vacation travel absorb 25 cents out of each dollar. This includes the purchase of clothing, camping equipment, sport accessories, etc. Meals and provisions take another 21 cents, while amusements and refreshments account for 8 cents and 6 cents, respectively.

On this basis it is estimated that the clothing stores, department stores, sport accessory shops and other retail establishments will transact this year more than a billion dollars' worth of business with tourists. Approximately $550,000,000 will pass across restaurant and quick lunch counters. At least $30,000,000 will pour into the tills of hotels and camps.

Concessionaires at amusement centers, bathing beaches, golf courses, tennis clubs, moving picture houses and the entire roster of varied enterprises for amusement of tourists will sell from $320,000,000 to $350,000,000 worth of pleasure. Even the humble hot dog will enter the ranks of big business as expenditure for refreshments along the way are expected to foot up to at least $240,000,000.

Recent census figures reveal the economic significance of these expenditures. On the basis of these data it is estimated that the $500,000,000 to be spent for automobile operating expenses is equivalent to an entire year's business for 38,000 automotive stores, employing a total of 107,000 workers.

Nearly 20,000 department, apparel, sporting goods and other stores could subsist for a year on the $1,000,000,000 tourists are expected to spend this summer for the goods they have for sale. The number of employees required to handle this volume of business for these stores is estimated at 100,000. Tens of thousands of additional jobs result from tourist business in restaurants, amusement centers, hotels, wayside stands and tourist camps.

Rayon Cord Tires Find Favor With 3 Racing Drivers

Information received today from well-known race tracks state that Ted Horn, star AAA performer, Gus Schrader, World's Dirt Track Champion and Emory Collins, Canadian Champion, are equipping their costly racing cars with the new Riverside rayon cord tires.

It is further understood that many other auto-racers will follow this move as soon as they learn of the change-over. The tire itself, despite the fact that it is conventional in design and is a "stock" tire, is expected to permit racing cars to maintain higher speeds than ever before. This is due to the tire's carcass-construction, which is built of rayon cord.

Although made of 100% cotton base, this new rayon cord is stronger than ordinary cotton cord. Rayon cord's most amazing characteristic is its ability to withstand heat. Ordinary cotton cord weakens under the grueling heat of fast driving. Rayon cord, on the other hand, becomes stronger as tire heat increases. So strong is rayon cord that the maker is able to build a stronger carcass of 4 plies that he formerly could with cotton cord of 6 plies. Because of all this added strength, blowout dangers are reduced to a minimum.

Dana P. Washburn, manager of the local Montgomery Ward store, reports that he is receiving many inquiries and orders for this new rayon cord tire.

NEWS OF THE WORLD PORTRAYED IN PICTURES

To Them Prague Points With Pride

Symbolic of Czechoslovakia's faith in her ability to fight, if necessary, for independence, is this impressive picture of the notably efficient Czech army. . . . tens of thousands of young soldiers, reported confident to the point of cockiness, tensed for the word that means a death struggle against Hitler and the great Nazi war machine.

Waiting for the Enemy—Will It Be Germany?

Communications centers must be protected, and here French machine gunners are pictured behind a barbed-wire barricade as they trained their weapons along a street leading to an underground telephone station near the border. Alarmed at the war-like utterances of Hitler and his Nazi aides in connection with the Czechoslovakian crisis, France is taking no chances of being unprepared in event of war. Tanks, gigantic railroad guns and soldiers have been moved to the Maginot Line on the German border. Hitler is reported to have massed 200,000 soldiers on his side of the lines.

As If Europe Didn't Already Have Jitters—!

The spines of superstitious folk in the London crowd pictured at left, above, probably became cat-walks for chattering chills when they spied the black feline shown at right. While the crowd waited anxiously for No. 10 Downing Street during a cabinet meeting to determine Great Britain's stand in the European crisis, the black cat, symbol of bad luck to believers in omens, marched up and parked itself at the door.

One Of Many

Typical Czech soldier, 'one of 2,000,000.'

Headed For Power

Nazi annexation of Czechoslovakia's Sudeten area is expected to bring new powers to Ernst Kundt, above, one of the chief aides of Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten Germans. Kundt played a prominent part in the formation of the Sudeten "Free Corps" which was prepared to invade Czechoslovakia.

New FCA Head

Cornell University is doing all right in the Farm Credit Administration. Second Cornell professor to head the FCA is Dr. F. F. Hill, above. He was appointed by President Roosevelt to succeed W. I. Myers, who returns to Cornell.

British Workers "Strike" For Czechs

"Stand by the Czechs," these English workmen demanded of the British Government. But their peaceful demand was futile, and a growing spirit of public uneasiness led to careful precautions against more violent outbreaks when Prime Minister Chamberlain departed for his second meeting with Adolf Hitler. The parade pictured here was staged by 2000 workers at the new Royal Air Force building during a half-hour "strike" on behalf of Czechoslovakia.

Entire World Listens As Hitler Makes Demands

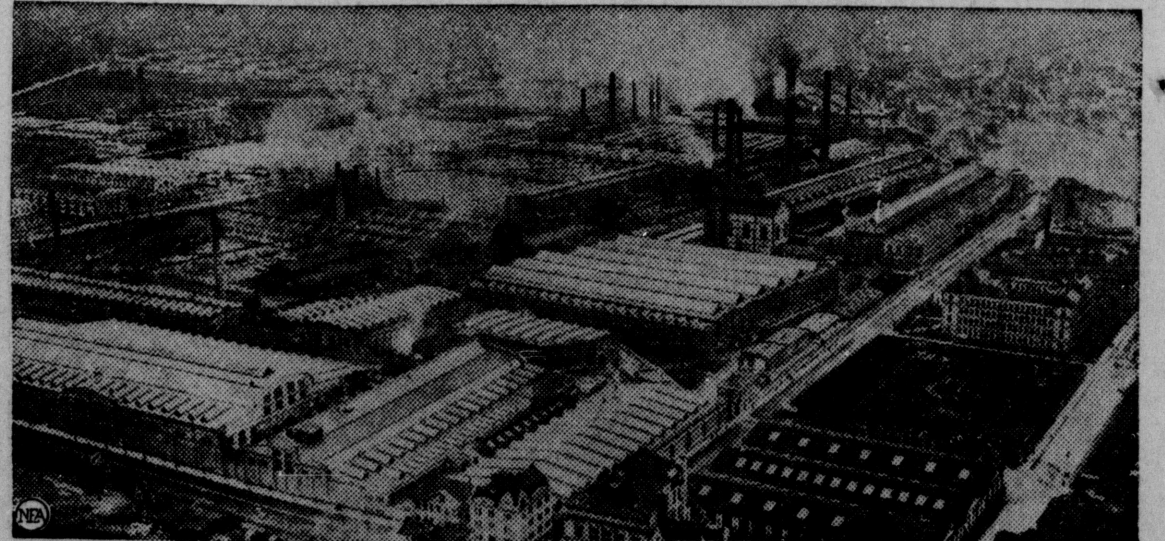

The entire world, its attention fixed on the tense situation in central Europe, was listening when this picture was taken of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, speaking before 15,000 Germans in Sportpalast, Berlin, made uncompromising demand for evacuation of Sudeten German areas. Picture, flown from Berlin to London, radioed across the Atlantic and transmitted by Acme Telephoto, shows Hitler speaking, Joseph Goebbels listening, chin in hand; Herman Goering is at right.—Acme Radio-Telephoto.

Artillery Moving Through Old Bohemia

Grim drama of war against the magnificent backdrop of the Bohemian mountains . . . Czech batteries of artillery moving toward the German border during recent maneuvers.
